Stirring Speeches Mark Celebration of 1st Dutch Men's Club

Eleventh Annual Banquet in Honor of George Washington Held at Historic First Dutch Church With Two Prominent Speakers.

In the vestibule of the old Dutch Church in Kingston is framed what is perhaps its choicest possession, a letter to the "Ministers, Elders and Deacons of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in Kingston." Written in 1752, its time-stained page bears the signature of George Washington and is an acknowledgment of the welcome given to him on the occasion of his visit to Kingston in that year.

Had the Father of His Country been permitted to revisit this old city Wednesday evening and take his seat among the 214 guests that had gathered in the lecture room of the church for the annual Washington's birthday celebration and dinner given by the Men's Club he could not but have been impressed with the fact that perpetuation of the memory of his character and qualities does not depend entirely upon the fading specimen of his handwriting that occupies a place of honor in the church. As he listened to the tributes paid to him he must certainly have felt that much of the feeling of respect and affection that moved those old worthies of over 150 years ago still animated their successors of today.

This was the eleventh consecutive dinner held by the present Men's Club organization, in honor of Washington's birthday and like its predecessors was an outstanding event, the dinner upholding the enviable reputation made by those of past years and the speakers maintaining the high mark that has been set by the long list of distinguished men that have addressed these annual gatherings including President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Preparation and service of the dinner was in charge of the ladies of the Henrietta Wynkoop Guild and left nothing to be desired. Tables were attractive with burning candles upheld by silver candlesticks while favors of red carnations added a touch of color at each place. A turkey dinner was served by deft hands, in generous quantities and hard indeed to please must be he who could not truthfully have said at its conclusion, "I have dined well." Once more have the ladies of the Guild demonstrated their perfect mastery of the art of finding the true way to the hearts of the men of the Old Dutch church.

Music by Zucca.

Music for the evening was under the skillful direction of Paul Zucca, assisted by Paul Purcell, with Danny Bittner at the piano, who led the guests in many of the popular songs, old and new and also gave several solo numbers.

William G. Merritt, president of the club, presided during the evening. At the opening he called upon all to rise and sing a verse of America, after which he presented the Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve, who gave the invocation. Following the service of the dinner President Merritt heartily welcomed the guests and then introduced Harry N. Holmes, field secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship, as the first speaker of the evening.

Mr. Holmes, who is a naturalized citizen of the United States, was born in Australia and is a traveler of wide experience, including work with the Y. M. C. A. in South Africa with the troops of General Smuts and General Botha and with the British troops in Flanders and France during the World War. He was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club installation January 13 this year and made such an impression at that time on those who heard him that he was asked to become one of the speakers at the Men's Club dinner this year.

Mr. Holmes displayed the oratorical ability that has won him fame and much of his abundant fund of humor in his address Wednesday evening, but spoke in more serious vein than on his last previous appearance. He found in the fact that he was addressing an audience of over 200 men, gathered under the auspices of the church, inspiration for much of his talk, particularly for his remarks regarding the church, what it had accomplished and what it stood for. He said that the church might not be doing all that it should, but added that 95 per cent of all that is really worth while is either done by the church, or is the result of inspiration that springs from the church. "What the church today, at its best, is trying to say is that no civilization can survive if it neglects spiritual values."

Tribute to Washington

The speaker paused to pay a tribute to George Washington, saying that the length of the shadow of the United States is largely determined by the character and achievements of George Washington. He found two great figures stalking through the history of the United States—Washington and Lincoln—saying that the former created the nation, the latter saved it.

Mr. Holmes spoke at some length on the situation in which this country finds itself today—"a moment of terrific strain in the history of the world." He found it to be a time when there seems to be a general lack of faith in the good motives of men. The world today, said he, is "facing the greatest challenge ever made to its collective intelligence."

Taking the position that there must be instilled into the life of America today a spirit that will defeat defeatism and pessimism, Mr.

New War Secretary To Have Hands Full

Big Problem Will Be to Provide Adequate National Defense at Minimum Expense—Former Utah Governor to Get the War Post.

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP).—In the face of troublous conditions in several parts of the world the big problem confronting the incoming secretary of war will be to provide adequate national defense at minimum expense.

George H. Dern, former governor of Utah, is believed in Washington to be the man upon whom that duty will fall.

What the army wants is to maintain its present status. Any cut in its trained man power, officers contend, would weaken the main props of this country's national defense.

Demands of the budget for curtailed expenditures gave General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, an opportunity to warn the house appropriations subcommittee that any further reduction of the land forces would "destroy the military framework of our system of national defense."

Another problem the new secretary may have to face is the care of 88,000 "wandering boys" who would be taken into army camps for a year under a bill now before congress.

A total of $22,000,000 would be allowed to defray the expense of feeding and otherwise looking after these unemployed youths ranging in age from 16 to 21.

Farley Demands Full Rights for Women

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—Political recognition will be withheld from Democratic county organizations which do not give women equal rights with men, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national and state committees, told 500 southern tier Democrats here last night.

He demanded full rights for the women of the party in a speech at the "victory" dinner of the Broome county organization in which he called for a "new deal" for the taxpayers and advocated reforms in county government.

"If," he declared, "the county leaders don't consider the women, I will give no consideration to these leaders."

He said some of the county leaders still had the attitude that "a woman has no right to vote."

"While I am state chairman," he said, "I will not allow this condition to continue."

A few hours previously he announced that he would not resign as state chairman after March 4. Mrs. Daniel O'Day, vice chairman of the state committee, also was a speaker at the dinner.

Note Accompanying Bomb Chief Clue

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP).—A note accompanying an explosive addressed to Franklin D. Roosevelt here was considered by Federal agents today to be their chief clue in tracing the would-be assassin.

Found with a crudely made but potentially dangerous apparatus, the note was sent to New York postal inspectors to aid them in ascertaining who mailed the package to the President-elect from Watertown, New York.

While the text of the note was not made public, post office officials said it threatened Mr. Roosevelt only by implication. It was written on a correspondence card of mediocre quality and placed in an unaddressed envelope.

The package containing a shotgun shell, with wiring shaped as a "Y" over the cap, was found at the city post office Tuesday when it tumbled from a mail sack and burst open.

Post Office and Justice Department investigators are believed to be working quietly on the case at Watertown.

Hull to Concentrate On Foreign Affairs

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—Assured of full cooperation from present state department officials, Cordell Hull plans to concentrate immediately on the complicated international problems he will have to solve as ranking member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

The Tennessee Democrat, who has been appointed secretary of state by Franklin D. Roosevelt, plans to retain his senate seat until his new duties begin March 4. However, he will direct his principal attention to foreign relations of the United States.

Secretary Stimson yesterday called on Hull, ill with a cold at his hotel, extended congratulations and placed himself at the disposal of his successor. Other department officials have offered to cooperate in every possible way to aid Mr. Hull in becoming familiar with his new assignment.

Cabinet Selected, Roosevelt Seeks To Fill Key Positions

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—In the seclusion of the family estate on the Hudson river, President-elect Roosevelt is scanning the Democratic list for the multitude of men and women he must pick to take over key positions in the government on March 4.

He has a long list from James A. Farley, the national chairman, who is supervising patronage. Many names are becoming definitely fixed in the lineup.

With his cabinet well in mind, the President-elect undoubtedly is consulting these officers as to their immediate assistants. Some fairly definite guesses already can be made.

William Philipps, of Massachusetts, appears to be a probable undersecretary of state and Professor Raymond Moley, war debts expert, for first assistant secretary of state.

In the treasury department, Howard Bunce of Maryland, is regarded as the probable undersecretary. Arthur O'Brien of Washington is in line for an assistant secretaryship there.

Under Postmaster General Farley, James O'Mahoney of Wyoming and William H. Howes of South Dakota are expected to serve as first and second assistants respectively.

The names of Vincent Astor of New York and Archibald McNeil of Connecticut are heard most prominently for assistant secretaries of the navy. William Kemper of Kansas City is talked about for assistant secretary of war.

As right hand men for Henry Wallace of Iowa in the agriculture department, the names of Frank Murphy of Minnesota and Henry Morganthau, Jr., of New York stand out in the discussion.

Daniel J. Tobin of Indianapolis is believed in line for assistant to Miss Frances Perkins, the Roosevelt choice for secretary of labor.

Homer Cummings of Connecticut, who waged the fight in that state for Roosevelt before the convention, is marked down for the much sought governor generalship of the Philippines.

Ben Lindsley of Los Angeles, former juvenile judge in Denver, is discussed for Governor of Hawaii.

Judge Bert Fish of Deland, Florida, is looked upon as the next governor of Porto Rico.

ROOSEVELT TO ATTEND CORRESPONDENTS' DINNER

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—President-elect Roosevelt returns to the capital today for a last visit before he becomes the sixth New Yorker to attain the presidency.

The former governor will attend the dinner show of the Albany Legislative Correspondents' Association tonight. For the past four years, during his tenure of office, Mr. Roosevelt was the chief guest of honor but tonight, although the most notable guest, he will be outranked by Governor Lehman. The correspondents dinners always are in honor of the chief executive.

The President-elect, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, was to arrive late in the afternoon. They will be overnight guests at the executive mansion over which they presided for four years. The party will return to Hyde Park on Friday.

HARD TO FIND PLACE FOR PICTURE OF HURLEY

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—Limited space for portraits of past heads of the War Department is making it difficult to find a place for a painting of Secretary Hurley in the halls of the State and War Building.

The portrait of Hurley was completed some time ago and is being "seasoned" while waiting to be hung after March 4.

There have been 51 war secretaries and seven who served short terms as acting head of the department.

The gallery of portraits, which may have to be rearranged to make a nook for the likeness of Hurley, includes all the heads of the War Department to date, including Benjamin F. Butler of New York, who served but four days in 1837.

In that period the average cost to the government per portrait was $300. It now is approximately $2,000.

YOUNG BOY SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY AN AUTO

Wednesday afternoon Edward Gardiner of 25 Murphy street was knocked down and bruised when he ran in front of an automobile driven by Raymond A. Bonesteel of 498 Washington avenue. Mr. Bonesteel had the boy attended by Dr. D. S. Meyers who found that the lad was bruised, but not seriously injured. Mr. Bonesteel told the police that as he was driving his car the boy suddenly ran from under the Washington avenue viaduct and was struck by the car.

MANY DOG OWNERS FAIL TO LICENSE ANIMALS

A large number of dog owners in Kingston have so far failed to obtain 1933 licenses for their dogs and a list of delinquent dog owners has been prepared and turned over to the city marshal. Delinquent dog owners will later be summoned to police court to explain their neglect.

Trinity Lutheran Church to Celebrate 84th Anniversary

This Sunday, February 26, will be a day of rejoicing for the members of Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, for it will be 84 years to the date that this congregation was organized with the following 27 members: Adam Breitenbuecher, Michael Boebel, Jacob Brill, Frederick Baier, Herman Betz, Frederick Bodenstein, Paul Bauer, Christian Busch, Simon Hanig, William Hoppe, John Kolberger, John Kubaupt, Henry Kraemer, Frederick Meier, George Meier, John Meister, George Noelting, George Roders, Henry Supples, Frederick Stephan, Jacob Schwartz, Casper Scheerer, Ernest Kinkelberger, Jacob Walter, Leonard Weimandt, Philip Lowenstein and William Schacht.

At first services were held in the basement of the old Presbyterian Church of Rondout on Abeel street where the Hebrew Synagogue now stands. Services were conducted in the Methodist Church also. On a lot, corner Hunter and Ravine streets, presented by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company a church was erected and dedicated on June 9, 1850. The excavating was done by the members.

Conrad Hiltebrandt was superintendent of the English Sunday school and John Haas, of the German.

In the year 1860 the present Ladies' Aid was organized. The first pastor was the Rev. C. H. Siebke. In 1862 a parsonage was built opposite the church on Hunter and Ravine streets by the Ladies' Aid. The present church edifice was erected in 1874 corner Spring and Hone streets under the Rev. J. M. Steiner, the old church on Hunter and Ravine streets having been destroyed by fire. The corner stone was laid July 8, 1874 and the church dedicated July 18, 1875. The Ladies' Aid also presented the large pipe organ. In 1881 a Sick and Aid Society was organized which was dissolved a few years ago.

The total number confirmed in Trinity since the beginning is 1,977, divided among its eight pastors as follows: The Revs. Mr. Siebke, the first pastor, 154; E. Luebkert, 32; P. Krug, 124; C. Reichenbecher, 27; J. M. Steiner, 287; J. Steinhaeuser, 354; A. Schmidtkonz, 320 (having served 35 years); W. H. Pretzsch, the present pastor, 159.

The church council resolved to add as a feature to the celebration at this time a reunion service of all the confirmed in this congregation since its organization 84 years ago. An effort has been made to invite each one confirmed in this congregation for the service this Sunday, which will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in English. The German service will be omitted. A special musical program has been prepared by the organist, Roger B. Schwartz.

The pastor will in his sermon be happy to greet the members at this joyful occasion as they return to their old mother church to reunite with their fellow-confirmed, whom they might not have seen for many years. The spirit of the sermon will be one of rejoicing, thanksgiving and fellowship in the Lord.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone, whether confirmed in this church or not, or whether a member at present in this church or not, as well as to the public.

All those confirmed in this church will kindly write their names and the year confirmed on a slip of paper furnished for that purpose so that the number attending may be noted in our regular bulletin the following Sunday.

Programs will be furnished with hymns and announcements. The members of the church council will extend a hearty welcome to everyone at the church.

MAYOR CERMAK'S CONDITION REPORTED MORE HOPEFUL

Miami, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP).—After a night of anxiety during which two of his physicians remained at the hospital, Mayor Anton Cermak's condition today was reported as "more hopeful."

Doctors said the painful colitis which has complicated the mayor's condition more than 48 hours and which caused great concern when it flared sharply last night, seems diminished.

The official bulletin, issued by the six physicians at 9:45 a. m., said Mayor Cermak shows improvement today.

His pulse was given as 104, compared with the peak of 120 reached yesterday and the temperature had dropped to 98 whereas yesterday it was reported as high as 101.6. Respiration was easier at 18, against yesterday's high of 30.

Alderman James Bowler, who has kept close to the door of the mayor's room since the assassin Giuseppe Zangara felled Cermak with a bullet intended for President-elect Roosevelt, told newspapermen the mayor seemed brighter this morning.

Cermak's nurses quoted him as saying "Gee, I feel better" when he awoke from a restful sleep.

STOLEN FUR COAT RETURNED TO HIGH SCHOOL LOCKER

The fur coat that was reported stolen from one of the lockers in the Kingston High School last Thursday was restored to its place in the locker between 11 and 12 o'clock today, just a week after it had disappeared. Who took the coat and who returned it is still a mystery, but the police are still investigating a clue they have. The coat is the property of one of the girl students and is valued at $175.

Japan May Postpone Drive Into Jehol Until End of Month

(By The Associated Press)

Reports from Mukden, Manchuria, today indicated that Japan may postpone her drive into Jehol province until the end of the month.

One consideration was said to be developments in the League of Nations, which has under consideration recommendations which have been made condemning Japanese policy in Manchuria. Another was heavy snowfall in South Manchuria and Jehol which was impeding operations. Furthermore a peaceful settlement of the problem was reported to be the hope of some Japanese leaders from developments in Peiping.

Reports that Chaoyang, Jehol's second largest city, and other towns in eastern Jehol were bombed by Japanese planes were issued today at Chinese military headquarters in Peiping.

Japanese reports said one of two advancing armies in Jehol was at Peipiao, 20 miles northeast of Chaoyang, awaiting expiration of an ultimatum at midnight tonight before starting the long-heralded "Big Show." Chinese sources said Peipiao was attacked but denied it was captured.

The other Japanese army, 150 miles northward, was approaching Kailu, northern key city, with bombing planes leading the way.

The Japanese spokesman at Shanghai said the Chinese nationalist government was informed today that unless its troops are withdrawn from Jehol they will be expelled forcibly. Although Chinese officials have not reported receipt of such a communication, the Japanese spokesman said it was delivered verbally to Foreign Minister Lo Wen-Kan.

Japanese ambassadors in the United States, England, France, Italy, and Germany were instructed to inform those governments that Japan is mindful of their interests in the Peiping-Tientsin treaty area and will not invade those two cities unless Chinese reprisals force such action.

PHILADELPHIA SPORTSMAN DEAD OF KNIFE WOUND

Surakatra, Java, Feb. 23 (AP)—Mrs. John R. Fell, wife of the Philadelphia sportsman who died of a knife wound in a local hotel last night, told police today that his last words were: "It's my fault. I did it."

He had no business or domestic worries, Mrs. Fell told the police, and she knew of nothing which might explain a suicide.

The police version of Mr. Fell's death was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Fell were in their apartment in the hotel. She was standing near a wash stand with her back toward her husband, who was eating dinner. She turned about and saw Mr. Fell rise and stumble toward the bed. Near the bed he collapsed and suddenly she observed a table knive protruding from his breast. She seized the knife, threw it away and gave the alarm. One of the hotel guests entered the room just in time to hear Fell declare he himself did it.

INTRODUCES 16 BILLS TO REPEAL OBSOLETE LAWS

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—Assemblyman Carl Pack, New York Democrat, who has been trying for several years to repeal obsolete laws on the state's statute books, today introduced 16 bills, renewing his efforts.

Among the laws named in the bills are those prohibiting dueling, purchase of lands from Indians, hazing in colleges, schools and elsewhere; horse racing near a court house and sale of liquor or wines in a courthouse.

Another is an old law which makes a person "who loiters about a building with intent to overhear discourse therein and to print or publish same" guilty of misdemeanor.

WOULD ESTABLISH UNIFORM WAGE FOR WORK RELIEF

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP)—Establishment of a "uniform equitable wage scale for work relief projects throughout the state" will be urged by Mayor Samuel A. Carlson of Jamestown at the conference of mayors of principal New York cities with Governor Lehman here tomorrow on unemployment relief.

The Jamestown official in preparing today to depart for the conference said he understood that a wage scale of 40 cents an hour is maintained on relief projects in some parts of the state whereas the relief administration has insisted on a 30-cent an hour scale for projects on which Jamestown men are employed.

Rev. W. W. Foster Dead.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP)—The Rev. William W. Foster, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal Church and an active educator and minister for more than 60 years, died at his home here last night at the age of 82.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—Treasury receipts for February 20 were $5,482,751.62; expenditures $39,037,936.68; balance $236,810,585.89. Customs duties for 20 days of February $11,535,252.00.

3,000 Americans in Sino-Jap War Zone

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP).—Americans in the portion of North China which threatens to become involved in Sino-Japanese fighting number approximately 3,000. Most of them are in Peiping and Tientsin.

There are 344 Marines guarding the American legation compound in Peiping and 775 members of the Fifteenth Infantry are stationed at Tientsin and scattered along the railways leading from that city to Shanhaikwan and to Peiping.

The Tientsin-Shanhaikwan railway is the line connecting North China with Manchuria and has been cut by the Chinese south of Shanhaikwan to prevent the Japanese from using it in a possible movement into North China.

In Peiping there is an American civilian population of approximately 700. Among these are many teachers, missionaries and doctors connected with the Peiping Union Medical College, established as a medical center for China by the Rockefeller Foundation.

American civilians at Tientsin are chiefly businessmen. With their families they number approximately 400. American banks, travel agencies, importing companies and steamship companies have agencies there.

Tientsin is an important fur market and many Americans there are engaged in that trade.

Seek Further Cut In Lehman's Budget

Republican Leaders Would Slash Ten Per Cent In Maintenance and Operation Charges in All Branches of State Government.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—A ten per cent slash in maintenance and operation charges in all branches of New York state government is part of the plan whereby Republican legislative leaders seek a further cut of $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 in Governor Lehman's budget, the Associated Press learned today.

Other details of the plan taken up by a Republican fiscal committee in an all day closed session yesterday were disclosed by an authoritative source. They are:

A five per cent salary cut for state salaries in the $1,000 to $2,000 bracket, to save $750,000.

A slash in the labor department appropriation to the level of more than a decade ago. The exact amount of the proposed cut was not divulged. The appropriation recommended by Governor Lehman is $3,215,000.

Suspension of all state scholarships to teachers colleges, normal schools, Cornell University and other schools, saving $300,000.

Suspension of all statutory increases in salaries. No estimate of saving yet available.

Curtail state prison camps.

The ten per cent cut in maintenance and operation charges, it was estimated, would save $2,500,000.

May Quiz Jean Harlow In Death of Paul Bern

Los Angeles, Feb. 23 (AP).—Reopening of the investigation into the death of Paul Bern, motion picture producer and husband of Jean Harlow, screen star, seemed likely today owing to a secret inquiry started by two members of the county grand jury.

The jurors, acting on their own initiative, have obtained a copy of the transcript of the inquest into the death of Bern, and have been studying it several days, it was learned.

Information received by the two from private sources is reported to be the incentive for the present study of the circumstances of Bern's death.

W. W. Widenham, foreman of the jury, and O. G. Lawton, member of the criminal complaints committee of the inquisitorial body, are the two men who have interested themselves in the case. They would not comment on the nature of the new information they are said to have received.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said:

"I know of no reason for reopening of the case by the grand jury, but if information should be disclosed warranting a reopening, necessary action will be taken."

Arrest Fellows On Forgery Charge

Ernest L. Fellows was arrested at Rifton on Wednesday afternoon by Officer Soper on a warrant charging Fellows with forgery in the second degree. It is alleged that Fellows signed the name of Isaac B. Williams on the back of a promissory note which he tendered to M. Kaplan, the North Front street merchant. This morning a hearing in the case was adjourned until later.

The other day Morris Goldman of 115 Hone street and Bernard Alcon of 88 Hasbrouck avenue, two taxi drivers, had an argument at the Rhinebeck ferry shed which led to each arresting the other on charges of third degree assault. The hearings had been adjourned until today at which time Alcon pled guilty and was fined $5. Goldman was represented by Attorney Arthur Ewig and the hearing in his case was adjourned until Monday morning.

Jungle Wedding Will Be Repeated on Friday At Firemen's Circus

Such a hit did the jungle wedding make with Kingston amusement and curiosity seekers that Robinson Brothers will present a like feature at the armory Friday night when another Kingston couple is to be married, duplicating Wednesday's ceremony that united in matrimony Miss Frances I. Hulsair of Kingston and Sawkill and Samuel B. Hull, Jr., of 111 Washington avenue, Excelsior Hose fireman and restaurant proprietor.

The wedding performed in the lion's den by the Rev. C. H. Polhemus was witnessed by the largest crowd ever assembled in the old armory and according to predictions and the number turned away—about 1,500—because of unavailable seats, Friday's attraction should draw another packed house.

Expecting the event to be as thrilling as it proved, a great mass of curiosity seekers rushed the ticket office as soon as the big doors of the old artillery drill shed swung open and long before show time the seating capacity was taxed to overflowing. Circus men, accustomed to handling crowds, estimated that that there were 3,500 in the place, extra seats along the aisles and in the performing ring being furnished to patrons after the regular seats had been sold.

The regular show went on without a hitch, despite the cramped working quarters, and all the performers got a big hand for their efforts. But the loudest outburst did not occur until the Robinson Concert Band struck up "Here Comes the Bride" and the wedding party appeared for the biggest event of the whole evening—the jungle wedding.

Members of the several volunteer fire companies in their vari-colored uniforms lined up along the aisle from the entrance of the armory to the lion's cage forming a guard of honor for the bridal party, saluting as the principals and attendants filed between the two lines with William B. Martin, foreman of Excelsior Hose and Chief Joseph L. Murphy leading.

Schultz Welcomed Couple

Loud applause resounded through the armory as the party approached the lion's den and then the mass of spectators was quieted by Captain Bill Schultz, trainer of the jungle king, who asked for absolute silence during the ceremony. Following his request, Schultz swung wide the heavy door of the steel cage and the bridal party entered, led by Mr. Martin and the Rev. Mr. Polhemus. They were asked by Captain Schultz to face the rear of the armory while he released the lions from their small cages behind them.

The silence that prevailed was broken by nervous gasps on the part of the spectators as three of the biggest beasts were released and leaped to pedestals behind the bridal party. As soon as the jungle cats reached their places, Schultz signaled the minister to begin and he read the wedding rites, taking about 10 minutes for the ceremony. As he pronounced the religious vows the onlookers seemed to become more tense, wishing that the thing was over. But those inside the cage gave no signs of nervousness.

Then came the biggest thrill of the whole circus program, surpassing all the wild animal acts, trapeze hazards and everything else. Schultz made another announcement, promising to show the spectators a picture "no artist could paint". He seated the bride and bridegroom on chairs and asked the rest of the party to stand behind them in front of the lions. Then he snapped his big training whip and the three lions with the nimbleness of house cats sprang from their pedestals and joined the tableau by lying in front of Mr. Hull and his bride, resting their heads on the couple's laps.

Following this experience the lions went back to their smaller cages and all left the big steel arena after kissing the bride. She wore a blue taffeta dress with a picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her bridesmaid and niece, Miss Mary Hulsair, wore blue crepe and carried sweet peas. Mr. Hull wore his fireman's uniform as did his best man, Charles Reis.

Tonsorial work for the bridegroom by Paramount Tonsorial Parlors, shampoo and finger wave for the bride by Jacks Beauty Salon, Broadway; a ring from J. Netburn, West Shore Department Store; a nice present from Herman Rafolowsky, Broadway; kitchen utensils from W. T. Grant Co.; Safford and Scudder, jewelers, furnishing the wedding ring; merchandise from J. C. Penny Co.; electrical equipment for the home, Herzog & Co., Wall street; Montgomery Ward Co., bridal dress; Gold's Reliable Shop, furnishing the bride's hat; French Dry Cleaners, dry cleaning; Schwenk's Bakery, bread for the home; Hardenbergh Furniture Co., furniture; Kingston Leader, one year's subscription; Mothers Laundry, presenting free laundry work; Cohen and Sons, smoking set; Perry's Market, a big delicious ham; S. S. Kresge, a pretty gift for the bride; D. S. McBride, a present for the home; Connelly Drug Co., a nice gift; Franklin Pharmacy, a very nice present for the bride; Singer's Dry Goods Store, another nice present for the bride; Broadway Bazaar, a present for the bridegroom; J. Bongartz, something for the home; Binnewater Ice Co., ice for the home; Harry Merritt, a basket of groceries; Archer-Flanagan-Watkins, a nice hat for the bride.

Whistling in the Dark

Baltimore—Miltenberger Small, registrar of the Maryland Institute art school, answered the telephone.

A feminine voice inquired:

"Will you please give me some information about your class of whistlers?"

"Whistlers?" exclaimed Small.

"Why yes," said the gentle voice. "I read of your exhibition of Whistler's work and I think I would like to join your class."

Trucks Have No Ears

Pittsburgh—Queenie is the only truck horse in Corapolis, and she lasts because she enjoys a good one-sided conversation.

Not long ago John Wilson put Queenie in pasture—and proceeded to wreck two motor trucks. Now Queenie is in harness again, and he says she'll stay there as long as he works.

It's because trucks wouldn't do as he said, Wilson says. They wouldn't even listen.

Memories of Yesteryear

Madison, Wis.—Remember the old fashioned barber shops and those mugs with your name in fancy gilt on 'em? Federal agents said a Madison speakeasy adopted the idea, lettering customers' names on copper mugs. They raided the place.

The Principle of the Thing

Philadelphia—It wasn't the cost of the jewelry—just the principle of the thing. Joseph Hughes, 17, was held in $500 bail charged with striking Alice Tazialy, also 17, because he said she refused to return his ring. Alice told the court she didn't have the jewelry. "Anyway, it cost only 10 cents," she said.

Perils of a Referee

Columbia, Mo.—It's safer, opines Dr. Sherman Dickinson, to wrestle in a wrestling show than to referee it. He went to a hospital with a leg injury after officiating at matches between the Universities of Missouri and Illinois two weeks ago and he's still there.

Paul Teaches 'Em

San Francisco—Police turned a lenient eye on three-year-old Paul Sutton and hoped his father wouldn't spank him for making a collection of ignition keys from parked automobiles. The police attitude was that it was a lesson for the drivers and if Paul hadn't taken the keys somebody might have taken the automobiles.

Funster Gets Tombstone

Broussa, Turkey—The Will Rogers of ancient Turkey is getting a tombstone 300 years after his death. Kara-Geuz (the name means "black eyes") was a famous funny man of the Levant. His quips and antics still live in Anatolia's shadow-shows, in which Kara-Geuz, reduced to a doll made out of painted camel skin, cavorts with his friends and enemies behind a light screen.

Now the grave of Kara-Geuz, after lying unmarked in a Broussa cemetery for three centuries, is to be given a $150 tombstone by a Turkish lawyer.

METTACAHONTS

Mettacahonts, Feb. 23—Plans are being made for an oyster supper in the near future at the hall. The date will be announced later.

Eli Rider and son, Kenneth, visited Ellenville on Saturday.

Friends of Mrs. Jacob Baker, who has been seriously ill, are glad to hear she is improving.

Dr. Williams of Kerhonkson is attending Benjamin Burger, who is ill at this writing.

The Sunday school is progressing very nicely under the leadership of Aaron Bell, superintendent. All appreciate the fine attendance and interest which is taken in the good work and will welcome anyone who wishes to join the Sunday school. There are classes for everyone, both young and old. There has been started a contest called the "Red and Blue Contest," which is proving to be quite a success. This contest started on February 12 and continues until May 21. The purpose of the contest is to be in attendance on as many Sundays as possible. In order to be counted in the contest at least five Sundays' attendance is required before May 21. The winning side of the "Red and Blue Contest" will be treated to a fine hot chicken supper.

The Osterhoudt trucks are busy drawing ice.

Miss Jennie Depuy was entertained for supper on Sunday evening at the home of Miss Beulah Van Dermark.

There was a good attendance at the Christian Endeavor meeting on Sunday evening in the Church.

Term "O. K." First Used in Tennessee Court Records

The first known use of the term O. K. appears in the court records of Sumner county, Tennessee, October 6, 1790. On that date Andrew Jackson proved a bill of sale from Hugh McCary to Gasper Mansker, for a negro man which was O. K." James Parton, in his biography of Jackson, suggests that what appeared to be O. K. in the record may really have been a poorly penned O. R., which was the abbreviation for "Ordered Recorded." Apparently, O. K. came into general use after Jackson was elected President in 1828. Jackson's illiteracy was one of the chief criticisms of his opponents during the next campaign. Seba Smith seems to have originated the story that Jackson indorsed his papers O. K., under the impression that it was the abbreviation of "All Correct," which he, according to the story, spelled "Oll Korrect." Some dictionaries accept this explanation of the phrase; others say it is probably from the Choctaw "okeh," which is pronounced o-kay, and defined as "it is so and in no other way." This theory was accepted by Woodrow Wilson who, as President, used "okeh" in approving papers. There is little evidence to support this theory. Another theory derives O. K. from the town of Aux Cayes (pronounced o-kay), from which the best tobacco and rum were imported in Colonial times.

English Sparrows Brought to the U. S. Years Ago

The first introduction of the English sparrow into this country was in 1550, when 50 pairs were set free in Brooklyn, N. Y. Others were soon released at other points, it being the common belief that these birds would protect the foliage of shade trees by feeding upon caterpillars that, in turn, liked to feed on the leaves of the trees. Unfortunately, now that the English sparrow is quite at home all over the United States, and, in fact, much of America, most authorities agree that it does much more harm than good. Feeding on seeds, buds, fruits and otherwise making itself a destructive garden visitor, distributing vermin and disease germs, making unsightly nests in inconvenient places, and driving away gentler, more desirable birds, are some of the habits which have injured the popularity of this bird.

Carried Too Far

The foreman was called away for a few days, and during his absence he left two of his most trusted workmen in charge.

"Pat," he had said before he went, "you can be foreman on Monday, and you, Mike, can be foreman on Tuesday.

On Monday morning Foreman Pat made Mike's life unbearable. He gave him all sorts of difficult jobs, and complained because they were not done properly.

Mike stuck it out for as long as he could without saying a word. At last he pulled Pat aside.

"You're having it all your own way today," he said grimly, "but you wait until tomorrow, you'll wish you'd never been born."

Pat laughed.

"You'll be doin' nothing to me, Mike, my lad," he said. "I'm foreman of this job today, and I'm givin' you the sack tonight."—Answers.

Dumas Hired Writers

Alexandre Dumas, the celebrated French writer, was perhaps the forerunner of those modern comic strip artists who have a staff of other artists to do a large part of the detail work of their strips. Dumas, after the great success of his "Monte Cristo" and "Three Musketeers," launched on a program of works so extensive that no one man could hope to carry it out. He hired a number of young writers to do the writing and then he went over the work, changed it as he saw fit and had it published in his name. Despite the severe criticism which followed this action upon his part, he continued to carry out the practice. While he made a large income, he lost everything through extravagance and venturing into wild schemes. He died penniless in 1870.—Washington Star.

Tooth Preservative Preserves

A perfect dentifrice—an absolute tooth preservative. And no worry about film on the teeth. To the contrary the film is to be preserved. Here's its name: Siparuna archeri. It's a hard name, but great things usually require big names. Its worth is attested by an American botanist and explorer. He discovered it in the rain-drenched jungles of the Choco region of northwestern Colombia. The aborigines of that region, the explorer says, insist that it is a perfect tooth preservative. The children chew the leaves of the plant until a film of some kind is formed over the teeth. Adults chew them about twice a year to restore any worn-off parts of the film. But this dentrifice has only one slight drawback—it turns the teeth almost jet black.—Washington Post.

Ancestral Tomb Looted

Robbers looted the ancestral tomb of the Manchu Prince Tsai Hsun. All the costly jewelry buried with the royal dead was stripped from the tomb of Prince Tsai Hsun's family, and besides the pearls the robbers escaped with five jade Buddhas, eight Buddhas of solid gold, ten silver ingots each weighing 500 ounces (worth a total of about $1,875), and a large number of other valuables.

Hello, Chicago!

An anti-bandit device, which has been invented by an autoist of Wellingborough, England, will, when the driver presses a button, electrify all the metal parts of a car. Bandits touching the radiator or the starter would get a severe shock.

Practice in Dropping Depth Bombs

MEN of the United States navy obtained valuable training in all kinds of operations during the simulated war doings in the Hawaiian islands. The two members of the crew of the destroyer Roper in this photograph are practicing the dropping of depth bombs in stormy weather.

Centuries-Old Ring

A 1,000-year-old gold ring was found in a field near Torneby, Sweden, on the Swedish island of Oland in the Baltic sea. It appears to be a duplicate of a ring found in almost the same spot a number of years ago. The ring is in good condition, in spite of its great age, and has been turned over to the government historical museum in Stockholm.

"Bred in the Bone"

The oft-used quotation, "Bred in the bone," is taken from Fable XIV of "The Two Fishermen," by Pilpay or Bidpai, supposedly a Brahman, who lived several centuries before Christ. His fables were written in Sanskrit, the first English translation appearing in 1570. The quotation in full is "What is bred in the bone will never come out of the flesh."

Fleischmanns Hotel Destroyed

Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed the Hotel Washington in the village of Fleischmanns shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday evening. The hotel, well known as a summer resort, was closed during the winter months, and was unoccupied at the time of the fire. The hotel was operated by the Grossman and Ginsler Corporation. It was built in 1906 by David Friedman, and in 1929 was sold to the present owner, Anne Halpern for $75,000.

At the time the fire was discovered nearly all the members of the village fire department were attending a benefit dance at Arkville, several miles away. The fire chief of Fleischmanns when notified of the fire obtained the services of a group of volunteers from the residents of the village, but they were unable to save the hotel which was burned to the ground. The hotel contained 67 rooms.

Word of the fire was received at Kingston police headquarters at 11:56 o'clock that evening from a State Trooper.

It is said that the first intimation of the fire was a series of explosions that aroused residents living near the hotel.

At Temple Emanuel.

The usual Friday evening services will be held at Temple Emanuel on Abeel street at which time Rabbi Bloom's topic will be "What can Religion Do for the Modern Man". The general public is invited to attend.

Jungle Wedding Will Be Repeated on Friday

groom: Harder's Electrical Shop, North Front street, electrical toaster; Excelsior Fire Co., one ton of coal; Brown's Sentinel, five gallons of gasoline; flowers carried by the bride, furnished by House of Flowers, flowers carried by the bridesmaid furnished by Valentin Burgerin.

The evening's performance drawing the record crowd was the second big assemblage played to by the circus on Wednesday. In the afternoon approximately 2,000 children and adults saw the show, enjoying it immensely. Among the kiddies at the performance were little ones from the Industrial Home and the Sacred Heart Orphanage at West Park. The children from the latter home were transported in cars furnished by the Elks, Knights of Columbus and Catholic Daughters of America.

Because of the large number of persons turned away from the jungle wedding Wednesday, it is expected that there will be another capacity crowd for the one Friday night, assuring the Volunteer Aid Committee a substantial amount for its treasury to which the proceeds of the circus will go through the courtesy of the volunteer firemen of the city.

Among those glad to hear about the success of the charity circus is Mayor Eugene B. Carey, who is still a patient at the Benedictine Hospital recovering from injuries received when his car was in collision with a truck some time ago. He is gaining his strength to the satisfaction of his physician, Dr. John F. Larkin, but will not be able to attend the circus, which he regrets.

Lindy's Party

A birthday party will be held for Lindy, Captain Schultz's elephant, at the Saturday afternoon matinee, starting at 2:30 o'clock. There will be a large cake with 14 candles as a feature of the event, which is especially for children.

It was announced today that in order to have enough seats for the birthday party and the second jungle weddings, 1,000 more will be added to the present capacity.

D. A. R. CELEBRATES WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Washington's Birthday was very pleasantly celebrated by the members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., holding an open meeting for the chapter and guests at the chapter house on Wednesday afternoon. The handsome new flag presented to the chapter by Mrs. John Schoonmaker was unfurled in front of the chapter house for the first time. Flags and flowers formed the house decorations which were very artistic. During the afternoon cards were played and refreshments served.

Luckies Please!

Palm Beach, Florida

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please"

Character...for a perfect start... Mildness ...for perfect enjoyment

You'll recognize it instantly—the fragrant, full-flavored character of Lucky Strike's fine tobaccos.

And then the tempting deliciousness of these fine tobaccos is enriched and purified by the famous "Toasting" process—that exclusive treatment which makes tobaccos really mild. Only Luckies offer these two benefits and for these two reasons—Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 23, 1933.

THE ONE-ROOM SCHOOL

It is surprising to learn that three school houses out of five in this country are still one-room buildings. It looks as if we haven't really emerged from the "little old red schoolhouse," though most of the schools nowadays are not red.

There need be no great lamentation. To be sure, the fine, big, modern county schools with everything under one roof are usually superior to the little one-man or one-woman schools scattered about the countryside. Yet it has always been true that the most important part of any educational system is the teacher, and a good teacher can function pretty well under almost any conditions. The little schoolhouse, too, is far better than it used to be—better in its housing, better in its equipment, method and supervision, and usually better also in the qualifications of the teacher herself.

There are even some things to be said for what is ordinarily regarded as the great handicap of such schools—that they have all the grades jumbled up together, confusing the pupils as well as overburdening the teacher. Six or eight grades together are, indeed, a chore for one teacher. But pupils often benefit by such all-inclusive instruction. They gain more or less familiarity with the work of every class ahead, and they have a continuous review of the work they have already done. Such learning is likely to stick.

SELF-SATISFIED CONGRESS.

Apparently Congress hasn't heard yet about the depression. Millions of Americans have looked on incredulously while both House and Senate, considering appropriation bills for the budget of the fiscal year beginning next July, have voted sums as huge as ever, including almost another billion for the much-criticised veterans' administration. To the accruing deficit of $2,000,000,000 for the present fiscal year, they are apparently determined to add one at least as large for next year.

The grand climax came the other day when the lawmakers vociferously refused to reduce their own pay, at the same time that heads of executive departments refused to cut their appropriations 5 per cent.

In fairness to Congress as regards its own salaries, it must be recognized that Congress had already taken a cut of 8 2-3 per cent, and that living expenses in Washington have not fallen as much as elsewhere. But living is high there because salaries are high and money is plentiful. And the question instantly arises, how many of the taxpayers in this country have had their incomes cut so little as 8 2-3 per cent? Also how many senators and representatives, as judged by their recent behavior, are worth $9,000 a year? And might not a real deflation in the emoluments of political life at Washington be the best possible help for American business?

JIG SAW PROSPERITY.

Remember those war days when we all saved tinfoil—we forget why—and thrilled at the slogan, "Tinfoil will win the war"? Perhaps those maddening jig saw puzzles are going to win the depression. As more statistics about them seep into the news, one realizes how their manufacture is mounting into a respectably large and profitable industry, with surprising ramifications. A Chicago hardware merchant reports that the factory from which he buys his jig saw blades is working 24 hours a day at full capacity and is weeks behind in its orders. A lithographer who prints pictures suitable for making jig saw puzzles reports that he gives discounts only on orders of half a million or more.

Here is a product which apparently everyone wants, in a price range accepted to every pocketbook not absolutely empty. Replacements do not wait for depreciation. As soon as one puzzle is put together it is ready to be passed along to some one else while the first puzzle-doer goes after a new one. Without wishing to cast a shadow on so bright a picture, a thoughtful observer feels bound to remind all concerned that so wild a boom may collapse. There is still fresh in mind the magic appearance and disappearance of midget golf.

CAREFREE DAYS IN GREECE

It will be interesting to see how the fuel economy measure recently inaugurated in Greece works out. The foreign travel division of the American Automobile Association reports the fact that cars with even numbered license plates may operate Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Cars with odd numbered license plates may operate Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. On Sundays all restrictions are off and everyone can go joy-riding. This doubtless will save gas. While some cars may be made to do double duty in the half week they are permitted to operate, it will hardly be possible for all car owners to keep each other out on their respective driving days.

Such a system would be disastrous in America, at least for the people who use their cars for business purposes more than for pleasure driving. It would probably never even be tried here, unless in war time, for no one otherwise could persuade the American public there was that much need of fuel economy.

REST TREATMENT.

You have learned that you have "high blood pressure" and may be considerably worried about it.

The very fact that you are worrying about it may cause it to remain high or to actually go higher, because worry or anxiety is one of the causes of high blood pressure, that is where there are no organic conditions such as hardening of the arteries or any kidney ailment.

The commonest complaints of those with high blood pressure are headache, dizziness, nervousness, fatigue, loss of appetite and aches and pains.

Where the high blood pressure is due to some condition of the blood vessels or kidneys, careful supervision and medical treatment by a physician is absolutely necessary if life is to be prolonged.

In the ordinary cases where there is no such organic trouble brilliant results have been obtained by what Dr. J. F. Halls-Dally calls the creation of a congenial psychical or mental atmosphere, and the cultivation by the patient of a cheerful and balanced temperament. Occupations of steady routine are to be preferred to those that involve constant anxiety and sudden fluctations. Light reading or other distraction is useful in getting rid of worries before retiring to rest.

Dr. Halls-Dally also advises that not less than eight hours should be spent in bed, a rest period after meals when possible and holidays that secure pleasant surroundings and conditions that will make for as much mental relaxation as possible.

By this mental treatment—calming the mind of the patient—it has been found that there is a great reduction in blood pressure, and also of the symptoms. In fact the symptoms may completely disappear with a very small reduction of the blood pressure, such is the beneficial effect of this mental treatment.

One important point in this relaxation treatment of high blood pressure is to get the patient to rest as much as possible immediately the high blood pressure is noted.

As mentioned once before, in most of these cases, the high blood pressure comes down to normal during sleep, which is not the case where there is any real organic trouble in the blood vessels.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO

Feb. 23, 1913—Mrs. Gussie Tepper of Chambers street died suddenly at Marbletown.

Death of Mrs. Charles Roosa at Hurley.

Missionary Meeting

The Woman's Auxiliary Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church will meet in the chapel on Friday, February 24, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. A. Noble Graham will give a paper on the study book, "Facing the Future in Indian Missions." Friends are invited.

Origin of Name "Michigan"

The name "Michigan" is the Algonquin Indian word for "great lake" and was first applied to Lake Michigan. The name for the lake appears on old maps as far back as 1695, though on some of these maps the lake is called "Lake Illinois or Michigan."

VALIANT DUST

by Percival Christopher Wren, Author of "BEAU GESTE"

SYNOPSIS: Intrigue rages at the capital of Mekrassen, near North West Frontier. Russian Bureau of the Foreign Legion plans treason in France. Marguerite Malaine and her husband, Felix, elegantly living from her and Raisul, cruel and spoiled son of the Kaid of Mekrassen, pretends more attention. Marguerite does not know that her newfound worshipper, Ichin Bellini, is a pseudo of the Commander of Kharga, nor that Felix' mother resents her presence in Mekrassen.

Chapter 16

THE JOLLY KAID

THE Kaid Abdallah Karim, seated upon his cushions in the Lady Zainub's chamber, laughed merrily his famous laugh, that hearty, deep-chested, full-throated laugh which shook him from head to foot, and which so rarely inspired a sense of amusement and inclination to laughter in the hearer.

"Ha, ha, thou Desired of Emperors, thou Moon of my Delight that know'st no wane, what saith the Prophet Himself (on whom be peace!—and he, Allah witness, knew something of women—what saith he?"

"Well, what does he say?" inquired the Lady Zainub, humoring her lord with smiles, and wondering whether, in the end, he would stick a knife in her, or have her thrown from the battlements in a sack. Better that, perhaps, than grow old, and wither in neglect.

"A little you weary me," said the Kaid.

"What saith he on that interesting subject, my love?" chuckled the Kaid. "Listen and hear. He said:

"Oh ye assembly of women, give alms, yea, though it be of your ornaments of gold and silver, for verily ye are mostly for Hell on the Day of Judgment," and the jolly Kaid again roared with laughter.

The Lady Zainub sniffed.

"Well, meantime, you listen to what I say, and so the further postpone your own day of judgment. Beware of this Jules Maligni, son of your servant and of your sister. Why has Pedro Maligni brought him here?"

"To learn to be, in his turn, my trusted agent and servant and friend, and those of Raisul, my son. As Pedro Maligni's father was to my father—on whom be peace—and as Pedro Maligni has been to me, so shall Pedro Maligni's son be to my son, a devoted and faithful . . ."

"Faithful perhaps," sneered the Lady Zainub.

"And when has Pedro Maligni been less than faithful; given me anything but good advice; true and full information; the best rifles that . . ."

"At a price," again sneered the Lady Zainub.

"At a price, woman? And who does anything save at a price? Should he risk death or imprisonment for nothing? Did not Pedro's father bring Pedro here, that he might know and serve me, even as Pedro has brought his son that I . . ."

"Beware of that son, I say," repeated the woman doggedly.

"I heard you—twice and thrice I heard you—oh Delight of Mine Eyes. Do not become the Abhorrence of Mine Ears. A little you weary me."

And the Kaid rose to his feet.

"It is not well to weary me," he added mildly, and the Lady Zainub shivered slightly at her husband's kindly tone.

Casting herself at his feet, she begged her lord to be seated, promising him amendment, obedience, and great entertainment.

But remarking that, although he had intended to stay for the remainder of the day, he was constrained by her distressing weariesomeness to leave it, the Kaid strode away, for he had an important engagement.

Thus it was a moment not more than an hour later than the time appointed, that he entered his council chamber, attended by his son, Raisul; his friend and agent, the Señor Pedro Maligni; his agent's son, Mr. Jules Maligni; his confidential scribe and secretary, Abu Talib Zerboun; mighty Ibrahim the Lion, his gigantic bodyguard; and the stern and stalwart commander-in-chief of his fighting men, Mahommed Ali el Amin, Mahommed the Trustworthy, Mahommed the Reliable.

Seating himself on a handsome, if somewhat dirty, divan, the Kaid courteously signified his pleasure that the others should be seated also, and bade Abu Talib, the scribe, go and inform the visitor who had arrived yesterday (on Señor Pedro Maligni's recommendation and personal guarantee), that the Kaid sat in audience, and would receive him.

"To strangers and wayfarers be kind,' saith the Koran," observed the Kaid, and laughed meaningly.

"He is undoubtedly a stranger—and something of a wayfarer by now," smiled Pedro Maligni, "as he has come deviously hither from Germany by way of Egypt, Tunis and Algeria."

"And I shall undoubtedly be kind," laughed the Kaid again.

A few minutes later the scribe returned, accompanied by a tall, thick-set, broad-shouldered man, dressed as an Arab, his bearded face sunburnt and weather-beaten.

In Arab fashion and speech, he saluted and greeted the Kaid and the assembled company.

The Kaid clapped his hands loudly; servants entered at the signal, and were bidden to bring coffee, mint-tea and cigarettes.

"Perhaps, being a foreigner, our guest would prefer strong drink of the foreigners?" inquired the Kaid courteously.

The stranger signified that he would be loth to offend his host's eyes and delicate nostrils with the sight and scent of the forbidden and abhorrent drink.

The Kaid laughed merrily, and the stranger eyed him thoughtfully the while.

"Well," said the Kaid, "as to that, I can bear it, I can bear it. In fact, to speak the truth—which is ever pleasant and natural to my lips—I have tasted it. Yea sometimes I drink it . . . And yet, on the other hand, I do not drink it, I never drink it."

"A hard saying, Lord Kaid," mused the stranger. "A riddle, in fact."

"Yes," agreed the Kaid. "The solution of the riddle being that my Holy Muliah, most pious and learned man in Mekarzen—yea, in all the country—yea, in all Mogreb—blesses it, and straightaway it turns to milk in my mouth!

"Let us drink milk," he added.

In the ensuing conversation and negotiation, the Kaid showed himself the keen man of business—the business of war—the heridity, training, and environment had made him.

The visitor or emissary, on the other hand, proved less competent and, on the few points upon which they differed, was, without great difficulty, outmanœuvred, overborne and defeated.

Plot and counterplot continue, tomorrow, in the grim Citadel of Mekarzen.

A different story might have been written into the history of Europe at the time of Napoleon if the rulers there had been competent to handle the affairs of their countries. Some of them were, of course, and Napoleon's wizardry as a commander in many instances cannot be doubted but this fact remains undisputable: At least six important thrones of Europe at the time were occupied by rulers either insane, half-witted or incompetent for their posts.

There was Emperor Paul of Russia whose rule is described by historians as that of a madman. He came into power in 1796, ruling until 1801. Christian the Seventh of Denmark, who ruled from 1766 to 1800 was a semi-idiot. In Portugal Queen Maria became wholly insane in 1788, but remained in power until her death in 1792, just a few years before Napoleon's armies invaded Portuguese land.

Spain's Charles the Fourth was stupid to the verge of imbecility. Ferdinand of Naples, although not insane, was incapable of ruling. King George the Third of England, was hopelessly insane for the last nine years of his life.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Feb. 22.—There was the usual goodly attendance at the West Shokan Sunday school service at one o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The service was featured by the election of an assistant superintendent and secretary. This was accomplished by choosing Mrs. James Burgher as assistant superintendent in place of Miss Mariam Davis, who is now in New York city, and Miss Betty Snyder as secretary in the field vacated by Mrs. Burgher in accepting the office of assistant superintendent. Miss Helen Thompson has assumed the positions as organist and primary teacher, also held by Miss Davis at the time of her leaving. The service was very ably conducted by the superintendent, Mrs. John Thompson. The lesson topic for the day was a continuation of the "Jesus Teaching By Parables Series". Scripture text Mark 4:21-34. Namely "The Growth of the Kingdom." Appropriate musical selections were "Onward Christian Soldiers", "Wonderful Words of Life", and "What a Friend". Next Sunday's lesson topic will be "Jesus Shows His Power", Scripture text found in Mark 4:35 and Mark 5:20. Next Sunday the hour for service will be changed from 1 to 1:30 as a matter of more general convenience. Noted visitors from the east side present were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sampson of the Reformed Sunday school.

It is learned that Benjamin Hover of Olive Bridge is improving at his home from a severe attack of illness. Mr. Hover is reported to have been under the care of a trained nurse but is now being attended by his daughter, Blanche, assistant Olive Bridge postmistress. Her place is temporarily being filled by her younger sister, Dorothy, and is making her home with her sister, Mrs. Dorville Boice. Both sons, Lauren and Harry Hover, are also confined to their home with grip. Trouble always comes in bunches it seems and in this case is hitting especially hard blow at the Hover family. All hope that from now on their recoveries may come speedily. Darville Boice, the eldest stalwart son-in-law, is also confined to his bed with a troublesome back ailment.

One evening recently Charles Dwyer and sister, Mrs. Katherine Sherman, were very delightfully entertained at a jig saw puzzle party, held at the home of Miss Gladys Van De Mark of Main street. Charles Dunham of Shandaken was also a privileged guest.

Judge and Mrs. Fred L. Weidner of North Main street were business callers in Kingston on Saturday.

Among prominent Olive Bridgeites who joined in the Kingston theatre going crowds on Saturday evening were Mrs. Elinore Fawkner, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall and son, Harry, Mrs. Edwin Gessner and Raymond Davis of Krumville.

William Gadman and Mrs. Wilson of North Main street entertained the following group of local celebrities one evening recently: Judge and Mrs. Lester C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Callow, Deputy and Mrs. Claude Bell, Charles Dwyer, John Nagle and Joe Winkler. The evening's most enjoyable program was given to card games and jig saw puzzles. Very delightful refreshments were served at the midnight hour.

All sympathize keenly with Mrs. Ira Nichols of Brodhead Heights, who underwent a serious operation on Monday in the Benedictine Hospital.

It is reported that Justin Bell, former town of Olive A. E. F. doughboy and for many years connected with the engineering department of the New York city board of water supply, has been recently laid off due to existing conditions.

Charles Hesler had the hard luck to break an axle in his Chevrolet sedan while delivering his Main street milk route on Sunday morning.

Farmers about Brodhead locality took advantage of the sleighing last week for hauling logs to the new Van Buren sawmill.

Mr. Bell, who with his family reside in New York city, are to remove to rooms in Kingston temporarily. Mr. Bell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell, and sister, Chloe, are residents of Shokan. The Bell family formerly were owners of the present Dolan property at West Shokan Heights.

Among a very prominent group of family visitors on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Marshall at Sheldon Hill were Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Marshall and daughter, Hilda, of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Justin Bell and daughter, Virginia of New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Marshall and family of Grand Gorge, also Charles Stainbridge of Grand Gorge.

Edwin Gessner of Olive Bridge spent the week-end with his mother, who is an invalid at her home in Elizabeth, N. J.

Donald and Bob Bishop of Oneonta and Hobart respectively, spent the week-end with their grandmother, Mrs. Watson Bishop, of West Shokan Heights.

It is reported that the condition of former supervisor Jacob V. Merrihew now of Kingston does not readily improve following a very severe attack of flu suffered many weeks ago. Emerson Brown of Kingston, formerly a well known resident of Brown Station, is also confined to his home by illness. Their many friends and former neighbors about old Olive trust that better reports may soon be forthcoming concerning their condition.

It is noted that the town of Olive is to be represented in the March term of Supreme Court by Charles H. Weidner and Granville Davis as grand jurors and Erastus North as trial juror.

Miss Edna Gessner of the Benedictine Hospital student staff of Kingston visited her mother, Mrs. Edwin Gessner, of Olive Bridge, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Golden Van Benschoten of Hemlock Knoll, Shokan, were callers at Pine Hill one day recently.

Charley Dwyer and his inseparable side kick, Joe Winkler, rolled over to the county seat Sunday evening to see just what the much heralded movie, "What, No Beer," was all about, anyway.

Mrs. Ole Burgher and daughter, Ollie, of West Shokan Heights, have their sugar maples growing about the yard tapped.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Julia Winchell of Shokan paid an unexpected call on her brother, Chase Davis, the veteran farmer, of West Shokan Heights. Accompanying Miss Winchell were her daughter, Margaret, granddaughter, Alvas, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clyde A. Winchell.

Master Mechanic Ernest Bell of Brooklyn has returned after a mid-winter visit with his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Bell, of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Every of Kingston paid a visit on Monday to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every, at Traver Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Bell made good use of the pleasant week-end weather by motoring to Whitepost on Saturday and paying a visit on Sunday with Professor and Mrs. Arthur Condon in Palenville.

Commissioner William Jordan of Brodhead was a business caller in this vicinity recently.

Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis of Main street accompanied her mother, Mrs. Ida Nichols, to the Benedictine Hospital on Monday morning.

The Palen farmers of Brodhead flats have been busy hauling firewood since working with the ice harrest.

Henry and John Bell of Brodhead Heights were business callers here on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Van Kleeck of Brodhead entetained a family group numbering 29 at dinner on Sunday.

Bernard Dwyer, well known local artist and writer, spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer at Brodhead.

Miss Mariam Davis, in training in St. Luke's Hospital, New York city, writes that she is doing about as well as the average beginner in her studies, and as yet fortunately hasn't been in the least homesick. That some of the girls feel so badly they even cry in their classes, and a few are planning to go home soon, if their studies don't improve. Sunday morning she in company with her roommate visited the Riverside Baptist Church, where the well known radio preacher, Dr. Emerson Fosdick, is located.

The Ladies' Aid quilting and luncheon will be held as usual in the church basement on Wednesday. Visitors are cordially welcomed.

An event of a decade ago was the death of James Walton of Phoenicia which occurred on February 18, 1923. Mr. Walton, who was a dyed in the wool fighting veteran of the Civil War, was the father of former Senator Charles Walton of Kingston, who also owns a farm property here, formerly the Tilden Bell place in Bushkill. Mr. Walton, Sr., was one of the best known and respected men in the town of Shandaken. For years previous to the installing of electric service at Phoenicia Mr. Walton supplied the lighting of the village by gas led by mains from his plant near the village center. His hobby was pigeon raising and he took great delight in showing his friends his caged flocks and how they were raised. The fond memory of this genial old veteran, Jimmy Walton, will long remain undimmed on the records of time.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Trouble in Paradise", for real entertainment, made doubly enjoyable by the brilliant acting of Herbert Marshall, this romantic and melodramatic picture leaves little to be desired. Directed by Ernst Lubitsch, and beautifully photographed, this talkie must be classed as one of the outstanding attractions of the year. It's the story of a handsome crook, who is also an excellent lover, and the plot revolves around a rich widow and her love affairs. Sophisticated, enjoyable, and thoroughly exciting, the show moves on to a dramatic ending. Kay Francis and Miriam Hopkins both contribute exceptional performances, while Charles Ruggles and Edward Everett Horton provide some superb comedy. But the acting honors must go to Herbert Marshall whose portrayal of the super-crook and super-lover is a bit of exceptional screen artistry. An added attraction of unusual interest is the "Carnera-Schaaf" fight pictures.

Orpheum: "Shopworn" and "Scarlet Seeds". Barbara Stanwyck is at her best as the star of the first double feature offering. Richard Talmadge goes through all sorts of exciting antics in the second feature, a newspaper story that attempts to show what is back of the headlines.

Broadway: "If I Had A Million". Some of the finest actors of the Paramount organization will be found in this picture, one of the grandest plays to grace the screen in years. Able direction, an unusual story, plus enjoyable acting, all help to make this picture one of those rare things that should be placed in the "can't afford to miss class". It's the story of a wealthy and eccentric old fellow, played to perfection by the able Richard Bennett. He picks eligible names at random from the city directory, and hands each one a million dollars free. What happens to each receiver of the money, and what each does with it proves to be exciting entertainment. Gary Cooper, George Raft, Jack Oakie, Charles Laughton, Wynne Gibson, Frances Dee, Charles Ruggles, May Robson, Gene Raymond, Alison Skipworth, W. C. Fields, Roscoe Karns, and Lucien Littlefield are among the famous actors to be found taking part in this noteworthy talkie. A picture recommended to everybody.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same

Orpheum: "Uptown New York" and "The Fighting Gentleman". Talkie number one gives Jack Oakie a chance to prove that he is more than a screen comedian. In this play, he gives a realistic characterization of a hard working, typical New Yorker who falls in love with a girl who has a past. Everything turns out in satisfactory fashion however, and it is enjoyable entertainment throughout. "The Fighting Gentleman" offers James Jeffries, Josephine Dunne, Natalie Moorhead, and William Collier, Jr. in a story of the fight game.

Broadway: Same.

SAUGERTIES BOY ON SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

Mount Hermon, Mass., Feb. 23.—David G. Neander, son of the Rev. Neander is a member of the junior class at Mount Hermon and is a member of the Hayward Club.

MOTORISTS HARD HIT BY NEW TAXES

Contribute Heavily to Cost of Government.

Washington.—A heavy share of federal, state, and municipal government costs is being borne by automobile owners throughout the United States as the result of new taxes entered during the past two years.

Revenue of more than $2,000,000,000 was expected to accrue to the United States government through the excise tax passed by congress at its last session and which levies on gasoline, oil, tires, and all accessories.

States and municipalities also have tapped new fountains of income by levying upon motor vehicle owners. In the 12 years from 1919 to 1931 state license and gasoline taxes alone have risen from $8.68 to $34.10 per capita, an increase of 292 per cent.

The tax bill which Mr. Car Owner in the United States paid during 1932 is estimated at the stupendous total of $1,500,000,000, this figure including the new federal tax and the state and local increases. In license fees, gasoline taxes, municipal, and personal property taxes on motor vehicles during 1931 the motorist paid a national total of $1,025,000,000.

One-tenth of the entire United States tax bill was the amount paid by motor car owners during 1931 through license fees, gasoline taxes, and personal property taxes on vehicles. The percentage is expected to be higher when the figures for 1932 are available.

From figures obtained from all parts of the country it appears that raising the tax on gasoline has been a favorite means of providing new revenue for states. In some states this levy has been pyramided to the point where the gasoline tax amounts to 11 cents a gallon.

While the old-time toll houses that once lined the nation's principal highways as a means of collecting enough money to pay for the roads and keep them in repair have passed into history, the modern gasoline filling station, according to leaders of the automotive industry, has just about taken the place of the toll house.

Gasoline filling stations today are toll collecting agencies for federal, state, and, in many cases, for county and city governments. On a basic tax of 5 cents a gallon, a light passenger car consuming one gallon of gasoline each 20 miles pays a road toll tax of $50 for every 20,000 miles.

Beve, Steer Grid Mascot, Is Sent Back to Ranch

Austin, Texas.—Bevo II, brawny Longhorn steer, cut such a swath at Texas university that the flesh and blood mascot has been expelled from the school and sent back to the Diamond T ranch, on the Mexican border, whence he came.

Bevo joined in celebrations and mass meetings with gusto—so much so, in fact, that he seriously endangered the lives of spectators at one football game.

So Bevo was ruled out by a vote of 8 to 1 by the athletic council, and now he can romp in the 12,000 acres of his homeland, unhampered by the cramped stadium walls.

Long Drive Ends in Accident Near Home

Washington.—After driving all the way to North Carolina and return in search of her sister whom she had not seen for the last nineteen years, Mrs. Inez Turner, Bethesda, received a cut on the right ankle within a mile of her home.

According to police at Bethesda she was attempting to pass a truck when it swerved to the left. Trying to avoid a collision she turned short, causing her automobile to overturn.

"I can't do 100-miles-an-hour ...but give me an oil that can"

YOU MAY NOT like speed—but your oil should!

Forty miles an hour may seem fast to you. But the oil that goes into your crankcase should be the 100-miles-an-hour oil—Gulf Supreme!

Why? That's simple! For the oil that can live through the blistering punishment of 100-miles-an-hour is a better oil—a better oil at ANY speed... high or low!

It gives you extra protection. Extra protection against heat, wear and the things that send a motor to the shop!

Has Gulf Supreme earned the right to be called "the 100-mile-an-hour oil?" Yes!—twice over...

First, by successfully lubricating a motor at nearly twice the heat of a fast-speeding engine—for 14 solid hours!

Second, by out-performing even "racing oils" at the Indianapolis Speedway, under AAA timing and supervision! It lubricated a flashing Duesenberg racer for a solid hour's non-stop run—at an average speed greater than 100-miles-an-hour!... Nearly two miles a minute on the straight-a-ways!

Change to Gulf Supreme. Its amazing ability to take punishment can mean better lubrication at any speed! Fewer repairs. And longer motor life. Drive into any Gulf station now! Use the winter grade for severe weather. © 1933, GULF REFINING CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

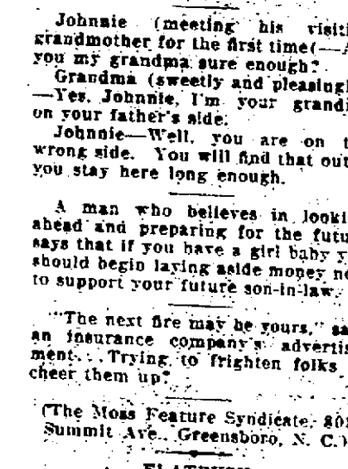
FLATBUSH

Flatbush, Feb. 23—The Little Choral Club of the Flatbush Reformed Church held its first concert on February 12 at the church.

The new class will start Tuesday evening, February 28, at 7:30 o'clock, under the instructions of Mr. Heermance. All those wishing to help are cordially invited to be at the parsonage.

Pan-Americanism Beginning

The idea of pan-Americanism began in Latin American in a conference called in 1826 in the city of Panama.



"Who are you?" queries Puff of the voice from the brush.

"I'm Quanto, the Prairie Dog, quiet now, hush—

I'll return with my friends and give Pancho a scare
That will make him turn pale and do flips in the air."

Georgina Klitgaard Wins Gold Medal for The Best Landscape

Woodstock, Feb. 22—Georgina Klitgaard of Woodstock with her painting of the Woodstock country, "Winter Wheat," won the Jennie Seanan Gold Medal for the best landscape at the 128th annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, America's oldest national art show, now in progress until March 19 in Philadelphia.

Dorothy Grafly, art critic of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, commenting upon the exhibition, says, "Curiously enough, throughout the annual, there is this emphasis upon soil, earth, farmlands, and it is well to note that at a time when industrial civilization has tied itself in ravel-defying knots, the American artist is pointing to the land. City impressions, with their irony and satire, still appear, but they are no longer dominant. One need turn only to such expressions of earth as Leon Kroll's 'Farm in Maine' and Georgina Klitgaard's 'Spring Plowing' with fine feeling for strong earth moods and rhythms to appreciate the vitality of elemental things."

Under the caption, "Kuniyoshi Becoming Individual," the Art Digest for February 15, says, "A new exhibitor has been added to the list of American artists whose works the Downtown Gallery shows.—Yasuo Kuniyoshi. Japanese by birth but American by training, Kuniyoshi has retained his oriental strain in turning to occidental forms and Edward Alden Jewell in the 'Times' felt there was no trading of his birthright for a 'mess of pottage.'

"Of this, his first one-man show in several years, comprising 11 canvasses, Mr. Jewell said: 'It used to be much more difficult for some of us to be enthusiastic about Kuniyoshi's work. Queer mannerisms were always getting in the way and one often had an uneasy feeling that the artist was striving to be fashionable at a time when novelties from Paris arrived on every ship. Either we have become accustomed to habits of style that may all along have been more sincere than they appeared, or Kuniyoshi has moved on into a realm of more serious achievement. Perhaps both factors are involved. The new pictures, several of them, at any rate, present him as a fine and puissant artist, absorbed in aesthetic problems that are worthy of his talent; as a craftsman whose craft deplores itself with modesty and seldom stops to salt the tail of winged imagination.' . . . Kuniyoshi's Japanese friends consider his work very Parisian, but Mr. Jewell is inclined to disagree with them although he does not claim it as American either, 'but a quintessence of the artist's own spirit, upon whose aspiration victory is beginning to bestow her coveted imprint.'"

Carlyle Burrows, in the Herald Tribune, comments in like manner. "On exhibition at the Downtown Galleries are 11 paintings by Yasuo Kuniyoshi, composing his first exhibition in two years. Those who counted on Kuniyoshi to return from his recent visit to the Orient with a new point of view will be disappointed somewhat, just as others will find the exhibition an occasion to admire his adherence to the familiar Kuniyoshi idiom. Once again he evokes interest in that singular combination of fantasy, humor and realism which are implicit in his figure, still life and landscape subjects. There are two major figure pieces in the show the large "Girl on Chaise Longue" and the "Circus Ball Rider", and both sustain his reputation for bold and pungent characterization. In spite of its exageration of form, its lumpy outlines and fussy technique, the former comes off with a curious, unconventional air of authority. In these subjects Mr. Kuniyoshi still favors a sombre color scheme of brown, black and gray. One of his latest works, the "Girl in Pink", suggests, however, a lighter trend in color. It is an interesting development.

Frederic Knight's Work

Also partaking of New York criticism is Frederic Knight, young Woodstock painter, a winner two seasons of the Woodstock Art Association's prize for "best work and development", who is now showing with an American group at the Barbizon-Plaza. The Herald Tribune observed, "Subtle colors, distinguished by a note of intensity but managing to avoid dramatic effect, are to be found in the landscapes, figure paintings and drawings which Frederic Knight exhibited." Margaret Breuning, of the Evening Post said: "Mr. Knight is able to secure his effects without chromatic lavishness; making each note of color count decisively in the final harmony of effect." Also, a tendency "to vagueness and floating planes discernible in his previous work" has given way to landscape canvases built up solidly so that one receives an impression of ponderable weight in the masses of earth and rolling hills, with detail subordinated to the unity of the design."

Two Woodstock artists who figure prominently in the Southern National Academy, are Alfred Hutty, etcher, representing South Carolina, and Boyer Gonzales, painter, representing Texas. The 1932 annual exhibition will be held in Memphis the last week in October and the first two weeks in November.

Veteran Critic Not Pleased.

W. R. McCormick, veteran critic, according to Art Digest, was not pleased with the display of contemporary American art the Whitney Museum has made, and he did not hesitate to say so in his column, "Our Art and Life," in the New York American. In the light of the belief that a museum such as the Whitney acquires paintings representative of the particular period in which they were painted, Mr. McCormick said a visitor to the museum "might well assume that most of our younger American painters are simply trying to imitate those French and European artists who have formed the 'School of Paris'. . . That a group of young American artists and more especially a group supposed to be very much 'in the know' should have turned out such a strikingly old-fashioned collection of paintings as make up this display" seemed almost unbelievable to Mr. McCormick.

The only two paintings he could find to praise were Lucile Blanch's "August Landscape" and Eugene Speicher's "Lucia." As for the rest he maintained they had fallen under the spell of the "poorest school of art, insofar as the tradition of fine painting is concerned, that was ever born in the City of Light." The effect of this one dissenting voice will, under modern circumstances, probably make the Whitney Museum purchases more "looked at" than ever.

The Print Makers.

Among the print makers the "Fifty Modern Prints" now showing at the E. Weyhe Gallery, Lexington avenue, New York city, Edward Alden Jewell found much to exhilarate reviewers. "Certainly," he said. "Mr. Weyhe and Mr. Zigrasser have assembled a splendid lot of modern prints—all of them made in 1932 and nearly all of them guiltless of academism. There isn't any dead wood here. The work, as a whole, is fresh and adventurous. Some of it is delightfully exuberant. No one interested in prints, or for that matter in art, should pass it up."

Among artists singled out by this critic for special mention are the following Woodstockers: Peggy Bacon, classified as a satire expondent; Victorian Hutson, Ernest Fiene, Andree Ruellan, Emil Ganso, Rockwell Kent. The prints consist of 32 lithographs, nine etchings, seven wood cuts and one air-brush.

At the ninth annual exhibition of the Hoosier Salon, held in the Marshall Field Picture Gallery, Chicago, Harvey Emrich was awarded the Edward M. Holloway memorial prize of $100 for the best autumn landscape in oil, titled "Catskill Mountains."

"The first question provoked by the international exhibition organized by the College Art Association in Rockefeller Center," says Royal Cortissoz of the Harold Tribune, "is whether it is as good as the average show hitherto arranged in Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh. The answer is in the negative. . . . Eugene Speicher's 'Cowboy,' to which a conspicuous place has justly been assigned, may not be the last word in characterization, but there is no mistaking the thoroughgoing gravity with which the painter has approached his problem or the skill with which he has solved it. It is this play of an individualized intelligence that is inspiring in the American section, counterbalancing the usual allowance of forcible-feeble stuff. Convention is held at arm's length, but the artistic proprieties are not flouted. The signs visible in a cheering number of instances are signs of health. That is where the American section triumphs beyond all peradventure over its rivals, with the possible exception of the British."

Miscellaneous

Showing at the Eight Street Gallery are Hideo Noda and Samuel Shane, with paintings.

Hobson Pittman's paintings may be seen at the American Group Galleries, Barbizon-Plaza, until March 11.

Robert Elwyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Elwyn, Woodstock, who is studying at the New York School of the Theatre, was cited by Miss Elsa Grimball, principal, for a "remarkable performance, and the best individual performance of the evening," in the school's public presentation at Roerich Hall, New York, of Luigi Firandello's play, "Six Characters in Search of an Author."

Stanley Kimmel, whose youth was spent in the coal fields of Southern Illinois, has fashioned therefrom a play, "Black Diamond", to open Friday evening at the Provincetown Theatre.

Henry Mattson is exhibiting paintings at the Frank K. M. Rehn Galleries, New York city.

Ernest Fiene has fashioned the illustrations for the Private Press of the Society of American Bibliophiles in the book, "The Story of Phaeton, the Son of Apollo," retold by Joseph Gaer.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF SALE OF LANDS IN THE VILLAGE OF ROSENDALE FOR UNPAID TAXES TO BE HELD ON FEBRUARY 24, 1933

WHEREAS, arrears of taxes for the year 1932 charged and imposed pursuant to law, remain due and unpaid on the several tracts, lots, pieces or parcels of land situated in the Village of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, described in the following list.

The names given below being those of the owners or occupants as the same appear on the Assessment Roll of the Village of Rosendale for the year 1932 and the amounts including taxes, fees, interest, and charges against the properties for such year, which may be due thereon at the time of the sale as hereinafter specified:

NOW, THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the power vested in me by Law, I, WALTER FULLEN, Treasurer of the Village of Rosendale, shall on Friday, February 24th, 1933, at twelve o'clock noon at the Fireman's Hall, Main Street, in the Village of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, commence selling at public auction so much of each of the said parcels or respective lots, tracts or pieces of land as shall be sufficient to pay all the Village Taxes assessed thereon in the year 1932 that may then remain due on each thereof respectively, together with the fees, interest, costs and charges which have arisen or accrued or that may arise or accrue thereon and shall sell and continue from day to day to sell until the said sale shall be completed.

The purchaser or purchasers at such tax sale shall pay the amount of their respective bids to the Village Treasurer within ten days after the sale and upon such payment the Treasurer will give to the purchaser, or purchasers a certificate in writing describing the real estate purchased and the sum paid therefor.

If any purchaser shall neglect or refuse to pay the amount of his bid or bids within the time prescribed, the Village Treasurer may state an account against such purchaser and may recover the same with costs from such purchaser by an action brought in the name of the Village Treasurer or such Village Treasurer may cancel such sale to such purchaser and the parcel or parcels so sold, shall be deemed to have been purchased by the Village.

The owner of, the occupant of, or any persons having an interest in, any real estate sold for taxes to any individual party, may redeem the same at any time within three years after the last day of said sale by paying to the Village Treasurer for the use of the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, the sum mentioned in his certificate and the interest thereon at the rate of twelve per centum per annum to be calculated from the date of sale for which such certificate was given, together with the charges accrued at the time of such redemption and the amount of any taxes levied upon such real estate, which have been paid by such individual party subsequent to such sale, with interest on such amount at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of such payment; and if bid in by, or sold to, the village, as herein provided, the said owner, occupant, or person interested in such real estate may redeem same within said three years by paying to the Village treasurer the amount of such certificate with such interest, together with the expenses accrued at the time of such redemption, as if a certificate for such sale had been issued to an individual.

Whenever a tax sale certificate issued on this sale shall be outstanding and aredeemed on any piece or parcel of land and shall remain unpaid and unredeemed for three years after the issuance thereof, the holder of such tax certificate may bring an action in the Supreme Court, or in the County Court of Ulster County, as Plaintiff, for the foreclosure of a lien of the said tax sale certificate and for the sale of the lands affected thereby, as prescribed by the Village Law constituting Chapter Sixty Four of the Consolidated Laws.

Upon the confirmation of such foreclosure sale by the Court and the payment of the amount bid thereon, the Village Treasurer will execute and deliver a deed of the lands so sold, to the purchaser, his heirs or assigns. The purchaser shall pay to the Village Treasurer a fee of Three Dollars for the preparation and execution of said deed. COUNTY COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER

—The Rondout National Bank of Kingston, Plaintiff, against Kamma Jeppesen, wife of Victor Martin Jeppesen, John Bundygan and Sadie Bundygan, his wife, Abram I. Feinberg, Mary Hedrick, The People of the State of New York, Henry F. Lippert, The Hudson Counties Title & Mortgage Company, The New Paltz Lumber Company, Inc., and Lloyd R. Lefever, defendants.

To the above named defendants:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of your appearance, on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service. In case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint. Trial to be held in the County of Ulster. Dated this 25th day of November, 1932.

WALTER N. GILL,
Plaintiff's Attorney,
Office and Postoffice Address,
2 E. Strand, Kingston, N. Y.

To the above named defendant Kamma Jeppesen, wife of Victor Martin Jeppesen:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. Frederick G. Traver, County Judge of Ulster County, dated the 16th day of January, 1933, and filed on that day with a copy of the complaint in the office of the clerk of Ulster County, at the City of Kingston, N. Y., the original complaint having been filed in said office on November 26, 1932.

The object of this action is to foreclose a mortgage given by Silas Van Wagnen to Abram I. Feinberg, to secure the sum of $2,000 and interest, dated October 3, 1922, and recorded in said clerk's office, October 4, 1928, in Book of Mortgages No. 351 at page 461.

The premises covered by said mortgage and affected by this action are briefly described as follows:

All that tract or parcel of land situate in the Town of Rosendale, County of Ulster and State of New York, known as lots Nos. 72 and 73, on a map entitled "Rosendale Heights, a Subdivision of Rosendale" on file in Ulster County Clerk's office October 7th, 1924, bounded easterly by Dellay Avenue, and westerly by Rosendale Boulevard, and being 50 feet in width and about 200 feet deep.

Dated, January 18, 1933.

WALTER N. GILL,
Plaintiff's Attorney,
3 E. Strand, Kingston, N. Y.

GREYHOUND

WHY

Geography Affects Climate Via Tropical Waters

If, for instance, the Panama canal had been constructed at the "sea level" type, as many urged it should be, and widened a few hundred miles, thus re-establishing again the free connection between the Caribbean sea and the Pacific ocean that formerly contained, evidently much of the mild tropical waters which, in the form of the Gulf Stream drift, now temper the climate of northern Europe, the British Isles, Iceland, Spitsbergen and other high-latitude regions, would then flow on into the Pacific, leaving all the places it now warms to increased inclemency and inevitable chilling, even, in some cases, to the extent of utterly destructive glaciation.

Again, if that submarine ridge or plateau of not little depth which, by way of Iceland and the Faroe islands, connects Greenland with North Scotland should rise above the ocean surface, where, presumably, it has been in the not very distant past, all access of the warmer surface water of the North Atlantic to the Arctic ocean would be cut off.

The whole Polar basin beyond this ridge, including the Norwegian sea, doubtless would become ice-covered winter and summer, since the cold Arctic water would be hemmed in and the warm tropical water barred out, and therefore the climates of the bordering regions would be appreciably, even profoundly, modified.—Atlantic Monthly.

Why Swindlers Are Not Averse to Serving Time

Fraud is a crime with a big attraction to a certain type of criminal. There are so many ways in which he can amass a considerable fortune at the expense of the public. And, even if he is caught, he has the knowledge that a nice sum of money awaits him when he comes out of prison.

There is something fundamentally unjust in this. It is also an encouragement to fraud. Many criminals are quite prepared to spend a year or two in prison if they can live "like gentlemen" after serving their sentence.

Proposals are now being made to remedy this, however, observes a writer in Answers Magazine. It is suggested that persons convicted of fraud should be compelled to reimburse, as far as possible, the losses of their victims. This could be accomplished by a slight amendment of the forfeiture act.

Among the victims of fraud are many people who cannot afford to lose money—certain classes of unemployed, for instance, fall quite frequently for the employment with investment swindle. In their interests, and those of the business people who are victimized by long-firm frauds, this reform is specially urgent today.

Why Things Are Found at Bottom

Have you ever noticed, when you are looking through a pile of papers for one particular document, that it is usually found much nearer the bottom of the pile than the top? If you are seeking a certain number in a long and quite unfamiliar road or street, is it not usually your luck to find it is at the other end—and that end very remote—from the one at which you entered? This is an experience so universal that some one has made a proverb of it: "It is often the last key on the bunch that opens the door." Even if you have never heard it before—it isn't so familiar as many other proverbs—you will admit that it's true enough, and pithy enough, to be placed alongside them in the treasury of popular wisdom.

Why Horseshoe Means Good Luck

Among the Jews, its arched shape symbolizes the outline which was traced that Passover night when the blood was sprinkled upon the lintel and the two doorposts.

The illiterate and highly superstitious Russians give rather a different reason, referring to the substance of the horseshoe rather than to its shape—namely, that its virtue lies in the metal of which it is composed, iron always being regarded as a charm against the evil designs of spirits and goblins, with which the dark forests and dismal marshes of Russia are believed to be peopled.—Philadelphia Record.

Why British Crown Was Remodeled

The gold framework was taken to pieces and reset to make it more secure. Among its famous stones are the Black Prince's ruby, which dates back five centuries; the pearl eardrops of Queen Elizabeth; the second largest part of the Star of Africa diamond, weighing more than 300 carats; the great sapphire from the crown of Charles II; the sapphire from the coronation ring of Edward the Confessor and other symbols equally as historic. Besides these larger stones there are 2,783 diamonds, 277 pearls, 16 sapphires, 11 emeralds and 4 rubies in the crown.

Why It Was "Model Parliament"

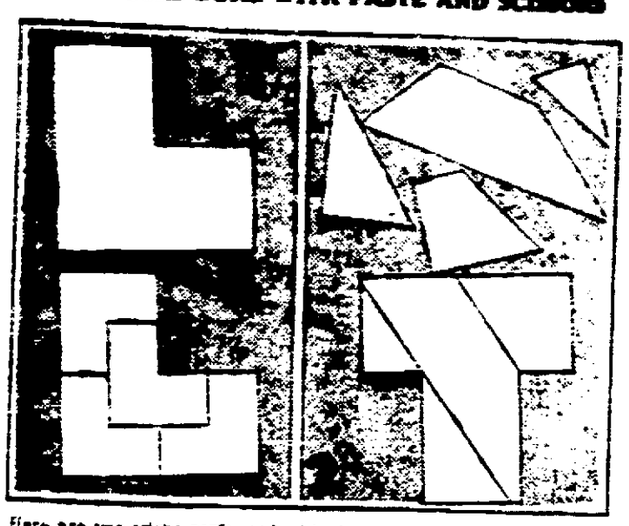
It was model in that it has been held to be more highly representative than the majority of legislatures. It was composed, first, spiritual peers: archbishops, bishops and abbots, with heads of military establishments. Each bishop brought with him one elected representative from the cathedral staff, and two elected from each diocese from among the clergy. Second: The lay peers, earls and greater barons, summoned by royal writ; then the Knights of the Shire, who were elected, and two burgesses or citizens from each borough or city.

Dickens From Large Family

John Dickens, father of Charles Dickens, the novelist, had eight children, as follows: Fanny, later Mrs. Burnett; Charles; Alfred (died in childhood); Letitia; Harriet (died in childhood; Frederick; Alfred Lamart and Augustus.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

TWO TRICKS DONE WITH PASTE AND SCISSORS



Here are two tricks performed with the aid of paste and scissors which will prove mystifying:

No. 1—Draw the letter L on a piece of paper and ask some one to take a pair of scissors and cut it into four small L's. The solution is shown above.

No. 2—Secretly draw the letter T on paper and make four lines across it as shown above. Cut along these lines, bring the pieces before your audience and ask some one to put them together with paste so they form the letter T. It is likely to be more difficult than it seems.

"Duck" Dinner And Speaker At Rotary

Members of the Kingston Rotary Club enjoyed a "duck" dinner and a splendid talk by Rotarian Ned Brown of Catskill when they met in weekly session in the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday noon. The talk was announced in advance but the "duck" dinner was a complete surprise to all present. Shortly before entering the dining room, Donald Sweeney announced that he wished to read a letter from the hotel management. The letter stated that for an additional charge of ten cents a "duck" dinner would be served to all the members subscribing to the plan. The revenue raised would be turned back to the Rotary Club, who could use it to carry on their Rotary Boys Club work. The idea met with instant approval and each member enthusiastically contributed. As soon as the ten cent pieces were gathered the members lined up to enter the dining room. Mr. Sweeney then raised a sign reading "duck" about five feet above the entrance to the room, and told the members that here was the "duck" dinner they had been waiting for. The idea proved to be a clever, painless way of gathering a little extra revenue in the interests of the growing Rotary Boy's Club at the Y. M. C. A.

William T. Hookes, Jr., of Lake Katrine made the day's program musically enjoyable by rendering two songs during the dinner period.

W. P. Goldin of Catskill and Jay W. Robinson of Auburn were introduced by President Joseph Morgan as guests at the meeting.

The talk given by Ned Brown proved to be both forceful and inspirational. His discussion, the substance of which dealt with the ideals and aims of Rotary, especially in an international sense, was so well delivered and so worthwhile in the thoughts it conveyed, that it created a deeper feeling of understanding in regard to the principles that the Rotary movement fosters in the world. What the real aims of Rotary are, what a man must see and hear and feel in order to fully grasp the greatness of the Rotary movement were discussed sincerely and understandingly by the speaker.

To Corral Somebody

Western cowboys adapted the Spanish "corral" (a yard for cattle) into "corral," a ring or enclosure into which live stock is driven and held. Gradually the use of the word widened until now we use it when we mean to detain or "buttonhole" some one.

NOTICE.

The officers and members of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 31: You are hereby notified that at the meeting to be held Friday night, February 24, amendment to Article VI, Section 111, will receive its final reading and action.

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR

Get Your Money Back

"Bi-carb" and milk of magnesia only make your indigestion worse in most cases, for they neutralize the digestive acid in your stomach, so it cannot digest your food properly.

Pepto-Bismol does not upset your stomach. It relieves indigestion gently in a few minutes by stopping the souring of food in your stomach and the decay of food in your bowels. The medicines in Pepto-Bismol which stop souring and decay are four of the finest medicines known to pharmacy. Read them on the bottle.

Also Pepto-Bismol is not a patent medicine. It is a prescription by The Norwich Pharmacal Company, whose Ingredients and directions are known and endorsed by the respect of physicians, surgeons, hospitals, nurses and druggists for nearly 50 years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, distress after eating, heartburn and sour, acid stomach, in a few minutes, get your money back from your druggist. Delicious Pepto-Bismol is harmless. Price 50c.

But don't be absent-minded and merely ask your druggist for "something for indigestion". Ask him for Pepto-Bismol by name. Look for the name Pepto-Bismol on the bottle. Refuse the unfair offer of "something just as good" which may hinder, instead of help your digestion. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you ask for.

The Cub Reporter Jots Them Down

Firemen's Circus at Armory Reminds Old Timers of Indoor Circuses the Y. M. C. A. Held Years Ago—Aldermen and Taxpayers Don't Agree on All Points.

"That's a crackerjack circus at the armory this week," remarked an old timer to another on the street today.

"You bet," replied the other, "you can't beat a one-ring circus and I have seen 'em all that came here from Hunt's circus to Barnum & Bailey's. The only objection to the three-ringer was that your neck and eyes grew tired trying to watch all three rings at once."

"Well," said the old timer, "this circus is the first professional indoor circus that I ever saw in Kingston, but I recall the old indoor circuses held some 25 years ago in the Y. M. C. A. Boy, those were some circuses too, although they did not have horses and tigers and such like. And there is many a business and professional man in Kingston today who can remember when they played a part in the old 'Y' circuses."

The laws and rules committee of the common council met with representatives of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association the other night to discuss some of the proposed amendments the taxpayers want the city to adopt.

It is understood that two of the proposed amendments, one for reducing the mayor's salary and the other to have three assessors instead of one, did not meet with approval by the aldermen.

According to one old timer if times do not soon change for the better the city authorities will have to adopt some plan for raising money to run the city without raising all of the money by a tax on real estate.

Real estate values have shrunk considerably, according to the old timer, and houses that formerly brought $6,500 in the open market can be bought for considerably less than that now. Even with lowered prices real estate is not active for no one has the money to spend, and high taxes do not have a tendency to increase sales of homes.

Houses can be built considerably cheaper than they could three or four years ago for prices of materials have dropped considerably. Labor costs have also been somewhat lowered.

Those who have the money to build now should do so for it is not expected that the present low price levels will prevail for any great length of time.

That a dollar goes farther today than it did a year or so ago is shown by the price of food products. Butter that used to sell for 40 and 50 cents a pound now can be purchased for less than 30 cents. Bread has dropped to 5 cents a loaf, sugar is much cheaper as well as flour. Meat prices have also taken a drop from the high level of several years ago. Chickens and turkey can be bought at reasonable prices.

The only trouble is that it is harder to get a dollar now than it was a few years ago.

Mother's Cook Book

HOT AND COLD BEVERAGES

THE making of a good cup of tea, which is such a simple and easy thing to do, is often spoiled by standing. The best pot for tea is of earthen ware. It should be scalded and hot and when the tea (a teaspoonful for each person) is put into the hot pot, pour freshly boiled water over it and allow it to stand three to five minutes to draw, then serve at once. For those who do not care for the tea so strong the freshly boiled water should be provided.

All sorts of trimmings are used these days for the tea. Jams, citrus fruits, marmalades and preserves such as pineapple, a teaspoonful dropped into the cup to suit the taste of those who like something different than lemon, cream and sugar.

One may add a bit of grated lemon peel or orange peel to the tea in the pot, giving a very distinctive flavor.

When making tea for a large company it is a good plan to put it into a cheese-cloth bag, then it may be removed easily when the tea is sufficiently strong.

Cambric Tea.

What memories it brings of childhood! Put a loaf of sugar in the bottom of the cup, fill one-third full of hot cream, let stand one minute and add water directly from the tea kettle. Children enjoy this when their elders have their coffee. It is also good for those who like a hot drink and cannot take tea or coffee.

Ginger Ale Julep.

Put one and-one-half cupfuls of sugar into a pitcher, add the strained juice of six large lemons, stir until the sugar is dissolved. Chill and turn into a fancy pitcher one-fourth filled with ice, shake vigorously, add one-half dozen sprigs of fresh bruised mint, now add two pint bottles of ginger ale and pour into glasses that have two tablespoonfuls of cracked ice. Garnish with fresh mint, frosted by dipping into powdered sugar. Serve at once.

Chocolate as well as cocoa should be cooked five minutes in water before the milk or cream is added, otherwise it is not palatable.

STATE OF NEW YORK, SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER—The Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association, Plaintiff, against Arthur J. Burns, Mattie E. Burns, his wife, Blumert Merchandising Co., Inc., Joe Miller, Kingston Coal Co., Inc., Kingston Oil Co., Inc., and David Kantrowitz, Defendants.

IN PURSUANCE of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale, duly granted in the above entitled action, and entered in Ulster County Clerk's office, on the 8th day of February, 1933, I, Frank W. Brooks, the undersigned, Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the County Court House in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, N. Y., on the 29th day of March, 1933, at 11 o'clock A. M., the premises described in said Judgment, as follows, viz.: ALL THAT tract or parcel of land, situate in the Town of Marbletown, County of Ulster and State of New York, briefly described as follows, viz.:

Beginning at the easterly side of the Esopus Creek in the middle of the Ashokan Road, thence southeasterly through the middle of said road, to the public highway, leading from Kingston to Ellenville, easterly side of the said road, as to exclude the blacksmith shop, formerly of Andrius De Witt, one chain and fifty links, lid with the Ellenville Road, to where a fence now stands, then along said fence in a southeasterly direction to the southeast corner of the lot, then northeasterly to where the cross fence strikes the old orchard fence, then along the old orchard fence northeasterly to the said Ellenville Road, at the school house, then westerly a slant across the road to the easterly corner of the Garden fence, then along said fence northwesterly to the north corner of said garden fence, then northwesterly with a line parallel with the middle of the Ashokan Road, to the Esopus Creek or Kill, then up and along the same to the place of beginning, being one of the lots devised by John A. De Witt, deceased, to his granddaughters, Cornelia and Rachel W. De Witt.

Excepting and reserving from the above described premises all the right, or lands that have been given or granted to the district for the school house.

Excepting and reserving from the foregoing, however, so much thereof as was conveyed by the Blumert Merchandising Co., Inc., to the County of Ulster for the Kingston-Ellenville Part 1 County Highway 239, as described in deed bearing date March 18, 1931, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office April 16, 1931, in Liber 559 of Deeds, page 554, to which deed or the record thereof reference is made for full and complete description of the portion as excepted.

Being the same premises conveyed by Caroline Schipp to the said Arthur J. Burns, one of the mortgagors herein by deed bearing even date herewith and filed for record in the Ulster County Clerk's Office with this mortgage which is given to secure the payment of a part of the purchase price of said premises.

Dated at the City of Kingston, N. Y., this 9th day of February, 1933.

FRANK W. BROOKS, Referee.

More Pipe For Bannon.

While the L. F. Bannon Plumbing, Heating and Contracting Company were unloading their car of wrought iron pipe at the West Shore freight yards they discovered that the pipe mill had neglected to include six tons of eight inch pipe. As this size pipe was the first to be used on their Cairo school contract the Bannon Company immediately telephoned the pipe mill in Pittsburgh which immediately sent the six tons of pipe by auto truck which arrived and was unloaded Wednesday evening.

Data is Plural

Data is the plural form and takes a plural verb. It is often misused as if it were singular. The singular form is datum. An example given in Crowell's Dictionary of English Grammar is, "This datum was easy to find but the other data are scattered."

Parent-Teacher Associations

The 34th anniversary of the founding of Parent-Teacher Association was observed on Tuesday evening by the High School P.-T. A.

Mrs. Arthur Russell, chairman of the Founders' Day program, gave a very interesting talk on the founders and what had been accomplished through the efforts of Parent-Teacher Associations. A very impressive pageant was given by the mothers from School No. 2, followed by a candle lighting ceremony.

The educational part of the program was in charge of J. C. Fraser, whose topic was "Extra-Curriculum Activity and Its Relation to Character Building." Mr. Fraser stated that prudence, charity, fortitude and temperance were necessary in school work. Three of the students spoke on the various phases of these activities such as drama, music, literature, debating, girls' athletics and the Prisma Society, and the influence over the students. Mrs. Edgar Palen also spoke on the social side of the school work.

At the next meeting on March 21, Miss Margaret Hayes of the State College for Teachers will be the speaker.

ROSENDALE GRANGE WILL MEET MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27

Rosendale, Feb. 23—The regular meeting of the Rosendale Grange will be held in Firemen's Hall on February 27, at 8 o'clock. The conferring of the first and second degrees on a class of candidates will take place.

The refreshment committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Deitz, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bedley, Mrs. Fred Jordan, Miss Lelia Deitz, Mr. Montgomery, Harold Beauvais and the Misses Ulrica and Lugardo Freer.

The last meeting of the Grange was known as "Our Yesterday." The business meeting and lecturer's program was one of the best ever had. Each one took his part the very best he knew how, and the Grange as a whole surely appreciates the efforts and time given to these programs. The program was as follows:

Opening song—Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party
Early Fraternal Life in Rosendale.. Charles Craig
Action song—Hats of Other Days—Mrs. Nettie Rowe, Mrs. Jessie Gallagher, Marion Clark; Mrs. Evelyn Kennedy, pianist.
Old fashioned dance—Mrs. Katherine Deitz and Mrs. Weston Clark
Address—The First Schools of Rosendale, by Alan McKenzie, read by Margie Mahaiko
Short sketch—The World Ag'in Her," old time melodrama: Time, one summer afternoon years ago; place, front yard of the Poole Homestead. Characters—Hank Poole, the brave old father, George Kennedy; Mary Jane Poole, the kind, loving mother, Nettie Rowe; Susanna Poole, the angelic daughter, Jessie Gallagher; Joseph Brown, shrewd detective, Clinton Van Nosdell; Richard Kent, desperate villain, Fred Mertens.

Games were played and the program ended with "Sweet Adeline" sung by the "Agony Quartet," Floyd Deitz, Henry Ditmar, Henry Mollenhauer and Ed Brodsky.

More Born Than Die

Tennyson once wrote a poem in which occurs the lines: "Every moment dies a man, every moment one is born." A literally-minded mathematician thereupon wrote to the author to protest that more are born than die and that the second line should read: "Every moment one and one-sixteenth is born."

DEY BROOK.

Dey Brook, Feb. 23.—The church fair and dinner held at Mrs. Henry Whipple's last Wednesday was well attended. Proceeds were $3.19. Fancy work was done and more work given out.

Mrs. LaMoure Stewart was discharged from Margaretville Hospital Friday of last week and is now spending a few days with Mr. Stewart's parents before returning to her home in Tarrytown.

Miss Mary Haynes, who has been ill with measles, is under the care of Dr. Maurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rosa called on friends in this place last week, collecting trophies for use at the sportsmen's show in the old Opera House, which proved a decided success.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Crumbling of Ohio have moved east and are now living in apartments of John D. Haynes, brother of Mrs. Crumbling.

John D. and Nathan Haynes motored to Ohio with their truck and brought back household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Crumbling.

LaMoure Stewart and sons, Paul and Donald, also Mrs. Katherine Leal and Miss Evelyn Sprague of Tarrytown were visitors in this place Sunday.

The meeting of farmers in Mapledale school house Saturday evening was not very satisfactory as no one seemed anxious for the milk route under existing conditions. An effort is being made to investigate.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Kittle were business callers in Margaretville Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong, Jr., and children, Phyllis and Douglas, also Mrs. O. D. Baker, were guests of Mr. Armstrong's parents Sunday.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. O. A. Todd Saturday, February 25. It is hoped all members will be present as an outline of work will be discussed.

Missionary Meeting

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of St. James M. E. Church will meet in the church parlor on Friday afternoon, February 24, at 2:30. Mrs. Charles Everett will conduct the devotions and Mrs. Cora Ackerly will review the first half of the Foreign Text Book. Hostesses are Mrs. Charles Hogan and Mrs. Ward Bunting. Mite boxes will be opened at this meeting.

Such a Headache I could Scream

"When I woke up in the morning I would have such a headache I could scream. My back ached, too, periodically, and I felt miserable and tired out. I had heard about Lydia E. New Sport Coat

Doe-tex—a lightweight, waterproof, suede-like fabric—features this new sport coat, a Schiaparelli adaptation which is smart in rain or shine. The long lap-over collar and big metal button trims are style points of the coat, and it has the sharkskin effect, one of the various embossed surfaces in which the fabric is developed. It is to be had in such colors as kasha, beige, fawn, cadet blue, bright red and green.

Industrial accidents in Ohio in 1932 were the lowest since 1926.

FASHIONS by ELEANOR GUNN

An Ensemble Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

Trousseaux are still rose-colored—tea rose especially.. Laces remain darker than the garments they trim and every little nighty has a jacket all its own. Pale blue ribbons, belt and trim pink undies. Satin crepe and flat crepes, chiffons and georgette are all represented in spring collections.

The Cape Is Not Merely a Caprice. It's a Fashion

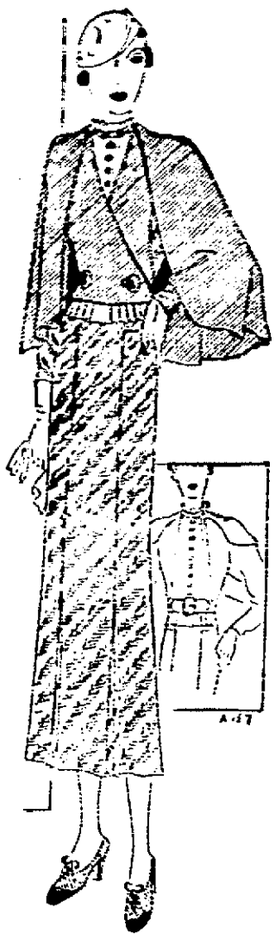
New York—We have had the skirt with contrasting jacket, so we may be expected to extend the glad hand of welcome to the skirt with contrasting cape. It has become a matter of preference entirely whether one has coat and skirt of the same fabric or even color. This naturally extends the same privilege to capes which seem to be brewing in strong for spring. The cape with gilet, or vestee, may seem a bit complicated, but why? And who cares, since it is very smart looking? Capes, even more than jackets seem to demand a serious treatment of the throat. They look better when the neckline, disclosed in front, is high. There are scarfs, many bowed and all manner of attractive collars buttoning in clerical fashion or at front or side.

The logical fabric for a vestee seems to be pique, and we are promised lots and lots of pique, to say nothing of other cottons. It's all very well to promise not to talk of cottons—and say that it is entirely too soon to talk about them, but how can one help it? They are being shown everywhere. How funny to find that cottons can have that desired wooly look. You have already been warned that cottons are so glorified that you will never recognize them. This is well, for many of them will be trotted out long before the time usually allotted to the wearing of cotton.

Last summer found us dining and dancing in cotton, not always organdie either. This season promises to find all the night clubs cotton clubs if you get what I mean. Women are sure to go in for these lovely new frocks since they are of every type and description from cotton laces, rather fussily made, to cotton laces, plainly tailored, through all manner of staples and novel effects.

While sleeves have quieted down, there are plenty of puffed ones, and these are so much more conveniently tucked away under a cape that this is in itself justification enough for the cape.

THE CAPE, AN ENSEMBLE IDEA



(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

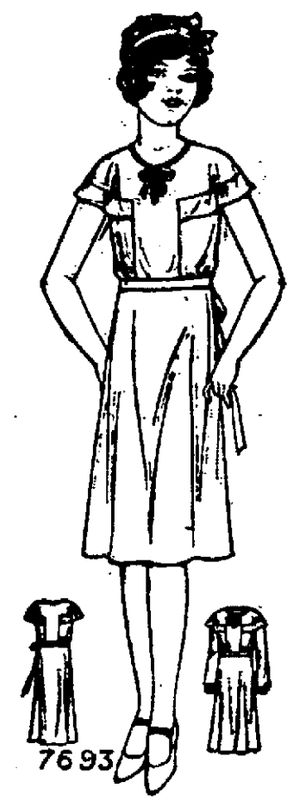
This ensemble, with cape with a gilet-like front that fastens in double-breasted fashion, the cape in a gray rabbit's wool, and the dress in crepe, is a feather stripe of gray and white. The pleated plastron is in white pique and is detachable.

Swagger Bags for Swagger Clothes

Since gentlemen do not go tripping about with handbags on their arms, one cannot borrow from masculine styles for the subject, but the many tailored swager handbags shown in the high style collections are definitely created to associate with the present promotion of mannish fashions.

For one thing, the widespread use of pigskin, real or grained, is essentially masculine.

OUR DAILY PATTERN



A Pretty Frock For Many Occasions

7693. As a school dress in cotton print linen or gingham or in cotton tweed or wool crepe with sleeves as in the small front view, this model presents practical and pleasing features. As a dance or party frock it is pretty in taffeta, crepe de chine or velvet. The capelet with plastron extensions is lengthened by flare sections and is mounted on the waist, which blouses slightly over the sides or front and back and joins the two piece skirt under a narrow tie belt, that may be of ribbon in a favorite color or of self material. A plain straight belt or wide sash is also nice.

Designed in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 10 will require 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material, if made as in the large view. If made with sleeves, as in the small front view 2½ yards will be required. The belt of ribbon will require 2 yards. To finish the neck edge with bias binding will require ¾ yard 1½ inch wide. The bow at the neck requires 2-3 yard of narrow ribbon.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Y. M. C. A. DANCE TO BE HELD TUESDAY NIGHT

Another of the popular Y. M. C. A. membership dances will be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Tuesday evening, with dancing starting at 9 and continuing until 1. Paul Zucca and his orchestra will be present, and furnish music for the evening.

The huge gym floor will be transformed into a real holiday scene, with bright colored paper, and dim lights. The refreshment booth will undoubtedly prove attractive and popular.

The dance sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., and expressly for members of the association and their friends, will be the first to be conducted by the "Y" this season, and is under the direction of J. Watson Bailey, president of the Young Men's Council. Clarence Wolfersteig has charge of refreshments, and Ernest LeFevre is acting as treasurer. Tickets are on sale by many of the members of the "Y", or may be obtained at the building or by calling 1100. The committee in charge desires that all tickets be purchased as early as possible, in order that suitable arrangements may be made to accommodate those who attend.

JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER DANCE FEB. 28

Final arrangements have been completed for the big benefit dance to be held at the Jewish Community Center next Tuesday evening, February 28.

Entertainment will be furnished and moonlight dancing will be enjoyed from 9 p. m. until closing time. Music will be furnished by Cy Austin and his well known six piece WGY Broadcasting Aces, now playing at the Smith House in Catskill.

The feature of the evening will be a prize fox trot at 11 p. m. in which many well known local dance couples as well as others from the Hudson Valley have signified their intention of entering.

A large number of tickets have already been sold signifying that a large crowd will be on hand and the committee in charge promises a fine time will be had by all.

CAMEL AD REVELATIONS WAKEN INTEREST IN MAGIC

Current interest in magic has received new impetus as a result of the new series of Camel cigarette advertisements which feature explanations of magic deceptions in order to bring out the thought that Camel cigarettes contain "No tricks . . . just costlier tobaccos in a matchless blend." The Camel ads are based on explanations published by the magicians themselves, according to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Professional magicians were consulted before the campaign was released. They took the view that "exposures" from within the profession have always created a new public ollowing for magic. Hence a great many magicians have heartily endorsed the new cigarette campaign.

With schools reporting great interest in magic among the children, magic shops doing a flourishing business in magic apparatus, and publishers finding that sales of magic books are rising, the Camel advertisements are likely to be credited with starting a new fad in entertainment.

ONCE WASHDAY SPOILED HER FUN — by DALTON VALENTINE

"It's so easy on the hands!" says Mrs. Clara F. Brink, 42 Furnace St.

"A WASHING machine demonstrator told me to use Rinso for best results, and let me tell you it just can't be beat. I wouldn't use any other soap in my washer—or in the dishpan either. A little Rinso flashes into lots of rich, lively suds that last and last. Clothes come so white, they're a joy to see. Even if Rinso cost more, I'd still buy it because it's so easy on my hands."

MRS. CLARA F. BRINK,
42 Furnace St., Kingston, N. Y.

Rinso makes clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter, safely. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. Its rich Rinso suds get dirt—saves scrubbing. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer. Rinso gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Wonderful for dishes and all cleaning. Get the BIG package.

NEW FLOWER SHOP TO OPEN HERE ON MARCH 1

A new flower shop on John street, under the management of Miss Gladys M. Schoonmaker, will be open for business, on March 1.

Miss Schoonmaker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gross B. Schoonmaker of Valley Gardens at Accord. This establishment will bear the name of Schoonmaker Florist, and will also be the Kingston office for Valley Gardens.

The shop will keep a complete line of cut flowers, potted plants, and fancy pottery, all modernly priced and cheerfully arranged. All orders for funeral designs, wedding bouquets, corsages, and flowers for all other occasions will be promptly and satisfactorily filled.

If Ruptured Try This Free

Apply it to Any Rupture, Old or Recent, Large or Small and You Are on the Road That Has Convinced Thousands.

Sent Free To Prove This

Every ruptured man or woman should write at once to W. S. Rice, 596-E Main St., Adams, N. Y., for a free trial of his wonderful Method. Just put it on the rupture and the opening closes naturally so the need of a support or truss or appliance is eventually done away with. Don't neglect to send for the free trial of this Stimulating Application. What is the use of wearing supports all your life, if you don't have to? Why run the risk of gangrene and such dangers from a small and innocent little rupture, the kind that has thrown thousands on the operating table? A host of men and women are daily running such risk just because their ruptures do not hurt or prevent them from getting around. Write at once for this free trial, as it is certainly a wonderful thing and has aided in healing ruptures that were as big as a man's two fists. Try and write at once to W. S. Rice, Inc., 596 E Main St., Adams, N. Y.

WEST SHOKAN

The West Shokan school children are planning a fitting program for the celebrating of Washington's birthday.

Birds and crows conspicuous by their absence all winter long, have again made their local appearance, which perhaps indicates that either winter is about to break up or perchance spring is still six weeks around the corner. But anyway, time will tell.

Philip Dwyer is keeping his fiddling arm pretty well limbered up despite his 70 years and one of these fine evenings he hopes to induce his son, Charlie, to drive him over to Shokan for a visit with Uncle Jake Crispell and let him hear what that same old fiddle can do, which as a boy Uncle Jake owned himself, and swapped it off, whereby after passing through several hands it came into possession of Pat Dwyer, Philip's oldest brother, over half a century ago.

On Wednesday evening of last week a group of the members of Olive Rebekah Lodge attended a joint celebration given in Phoenicia by Tiskilwa Rebekah and Phoenicia I. O. O. F. lodges. The valedictorian for the occasion was Past District Deputy Arthur E. Trowbridge, of the Olive delegation. A very delightful time was reported by the visitors.

There was the usual goodly attendance at the Saturday evening session of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge. A social hour featuring pinochle and euchre followed at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmoekel of North Main Street Heights were Kingston shoppers on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schmoekel of North Main street Heights, entertained friends at their home on Saturday.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Handzlaka, wife of Victor Handzlaka, who died in New York city Wednesday, will be held there from the funeral chapel of Frank J. McGardle, 49 West 26th street, Friday at 8:30 a. m., and at St. Cyril's Church at 9 o'clock with a Mass of requiem for the repose of her soul. The body will then be brought to her home in Rosendale. Interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery, Rosendale, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Harriet Delamater Clancy, wife of Thomas P. Clancy, of 193 First avenue, died this morning. Surviving besides her husband are one son, Raymond; four sisters, Mrs. Riley Bailey of Aingerville, Mrs. Henry Brown of Jackson Heights, Mrs. Sarah Sherman of Kingston and Mrs. Francis A. Hunten of Kingston; four brothers, George of Jersey City, Alvin of Baltimore, Md., William of Newark and John of Jackson Heights, L. I. Those wishing to view the remains may do so at the late home Friday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. Funeral and interment private.

The funeral of Edward J. Fleming was held this morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence, 126 Washington avenue and at 9:30 at St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Louis M. Cusack. The funeral was a large one and there were many beautiful flowers and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. Wednesday evening the Holy Name Society recited the Rosary at the Fleming home, led by Father Cusack. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Father Cusack pronounced final absolution. Bearers were William B. Martin, Nicholas Brophy, Carl Grosenbeck, Frank Reis, George Gorsline and Frank Principe.

About the Folks

Ben Fein of the New York Sample Shop has returned from a vacation spent at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar B. London of Lounsberry Place left today for a 13-day cruise to Nassau, Havana and Miami, Fla.

Paul Kaman, Jr., bookkeeper of the Kaplan Furniture Company, 14 East Strand, and clerk of the local Fire Board, has returned to his work after being absent for several days with a severe cold.

Society Notes

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Krum of New Paltz celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on February 20 by entertaining a number of friends at their home.

KANDER'S LEGHORNS TAKE FIRST PLACE IN EGG CONTEST

New Paltz, Feb. 23—For all Leghorns in the Western New York Egg Laying Contest in Stafford, N. Y., Irving Kander's pedigreed Leghorn pen of New Paltz holds first place. The contest report says: The pen of Leghorns from Kander's pedigreed Leghorns, New Paltz, turned out a weekly score of an even thousand. This figure is reached two weeks earlier than was the case in the first test and this group of pullets appear to be headed for an outstanding high egg record for the year. Mr. Kander's chicken farm is situated across the Wallkill river in New Paltz on the road leading to Springtown.

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY IN THE THIRD DEGREE

Frank Kupiec, 17, of Troy, and Stanley Cebula, 19, of Watervliet, were brought down from Troy Wednesday by Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper McLennon and after arraignment before Justice Carl H. Hergert of Milton were committed to the Ulster county jail, the charge being burglary in the third degree. It is understood that the two are wanted for alleged connection with the robbery of the Charles Mattaraza roadstand on Route 9W near Milton some time ago.

Servicenter Directors

At the Valentine party given by the Girls' Club in the home of Mrs. C. Field Friday evening, 25 young people attended. The evening was spent in games. Refreshments were also enjoyed.

H. C. Dayton enjoyed a call from Samuel Johnston of Monroe, N. Y., on Sunday.

Mrs. William Corwin of the New Paltz and Highland Road was hostess to the Evening Reading Circle of the Highland Presbyterian Church at her home on Monday evening, February 20.

Mrs. Palmatier attended the card party of the Vineyard Rebekah Lodge in Highland recently.

Henry Freer and friends attended the ski jumping at Vails Gate on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary E. Kniffen was afternoon and supper guest of her brother, Jacob Clearwater, and family on Saturday. In the early evening she called on her granddaughter, Mrs. Roy Hasbrouck, and family.

Among the guests spending the week-end at Orchard Terrace Inn were Miss Catherine Trimborn and two young lady friends of Brooklyn.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott has been named James Arthur Oliver Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Palmatier entertained their daughter of Highland on Thursday.

Solomon LeFevre and family, who are spending the winter in Fort Lauderdale, recently visited Bok Tower, Ringling Art Museum, Tampa Fair and St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gerow called on Mr. and Mrs. John P. Woolsey in Kingston last week. Mrs. Woolsey was formerly Maude Cole of New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. David Sutton of Lloyd visited their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sutton, in Clintondale on Sunday.

Walter Rensen spent the week-end in New York city.

Miss Evelyn Vandemark visited friends in Modena recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paltridge of Ardonia were callers in town Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb Kniffen and Mrs. Mary E. Kniffen called on Mr. and Mrs. Frances J. Hargraves in Kingston on Sunday afternoon.

Charles Harp is ill in the Kingston Hospital.

William Drake of Lloyd is rebuilding his house, which was destroyed by fire in the absence of Mr. Drake during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome LeFevre and Miss Evelyn DuBois, who are spending the winter in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., have been ill with the grip.

TULIPS IN BLOOM AND ROBINS SINGING IN ALABAMA

Ralph D. Clearwater, who has returned from Selma, Alabama, where he went to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Charles A. Patterson, reports that when he left there it was quite warm. People were sitting on their verandas, some men had discarded their coats and vests, and some boys were barefoot. Tulips were coming in bloom and robins were singing.

SCHIEFFER REPORTED DEAD IN ELLENVILLE

It is reported that Augustus Schieffer of Ellenville, well known horseman and who some time since conducted the cafe in the Wayside Inn building at Ellenville, dropped dead on the streets of that village this morning. Mr. Schieffer was engaged as a court officer at the last term of county court. He is survived by his wife.

Less Permits In 1933

Over 300 persons who last year took out pistol permits in Ulster county have not as yet renewed their permits for the present year.

Meaning of Term "Bloc"

"Bloc" is of French origin. In France a bloc is a group of parties or factions united temporarily for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a ministry. The members of the bloc are bound together only for a definite purpose; they do not lose their status in their respective parties, but vote with it on most measures. In this country the term "bloc" is applied to members of congress or a legislature who act together for some economic issue regardless of party affiliation.

Historical Inca City

An ancient Inca city was discovered about twenty miles north of Quito, Peru. One of the main buildings uncovered by the scientists is believed to be the Temple of the Sun where the mother of Atahualpa, last of the Inca rulers, was born. Atahualpa was strangled to death by Pizarro's men in 1533, after he had answered a demand to accept the Christian faith by flinging a Bible angrily to the ground. His death marked the end of the great Inca empire.

Idea Is an Anchor

No one should ever forget that in this long chain from man upward, ideas play the most important part. If there is no hope in them, there is no hope in anything. The idea is an anchor, a chain to the wind, a light in the dark. It is something apparently all our own, but which, reasoning forward, we deduce exists in a greater state of power and grandeur in eternity.

The Fable of the Cross Word for Every Hour

By GEORGE ADE

© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

ONCE there was a man named Alfred Cumback who thought that he had a Patent right on Physical Pain, Nervous Tension and all other forms of Agony. Up to the time that he began to feel Rocky there never had been any genuine deep-seated Suffering on the part of any Member of the Human Family.

Whenever he was burning low and the whole Universe was heavily festooned with Crape and the only Flowers blooming were the Lilies used at first class Funerals, and no Birds sang except the Hoot-Owl and the Whip-poor-Will, it was then that Mr. Cumback found his only Relief in cussing audibly and making dreadfully sarcastic Remarks to the Imbeciles who were deliberately intent upon driving him to the Foolish House.

The only Joy that he could extract from a drab Existence was that of toasting, panning, bawling out and harpooning those who got his Goat and stuck pins into his Inmost Soul. The average American is long-suffering and doesn't at all object to being kicked thirty or forty Times in the same Place, but not so with Mr. Cumback. He held to the Theory that it was the Duty of every public-spirited Citizen to fight unceasingly for all of the Rights guaranteed by the Constitution before it was patched up. In other words not to let Anybody get away with Anything.

In a way he was a Reformer. He believed that many of the Abuses which have grown up in this so-called Paradise known as the U. S. A. could be blamed upon the spineless and unresisting Common People who were, as you might say, hollow below the Ribs. Mr. Cumback probably understood that he could not right all the Wrongs while he had no Assists from the other Players, but he had the glorious Satisfaction of knowing that he put up a Battle when anyone tried to sew Buttons on him. He probably couldn't make honest-to-goodness Men and Women out of Whippets and Snoofs but he got his only pleasant Thrills out of giving them the Medicine they needed, viz., the old and brutal Truth.

Two Prominent Clubmen at Work.

For instance, he was the only Person who had the sublime Courage to hop onto the Greek God with the Square Shoulders and gummy Hair who had consented to act as salesman in a Haberdashery, pending his Marriage to some well known Heiress. This He-Sparrow was meat for Mr. Cumback. He had observed that when a would-be Customer walks into a Gents' Furnishing Establishment to Pajama himself or lay in a new flock of Studs, usually he is compelled to wait until the two prominent Clubmen behind the Show-Case get through discussing some urgent Scandal which is agitating their Set. Mr. Cumback had vowed that they would never stand him up, like an old Umbrella, without getting a few Keepsakes in return.

He never interrupted Cuthbert and Llewellyn while they were at it, but after they had concluded, and one of them came to Mr. Cumback and asked, as he lifted the Eyebrow, "Yes, what is it?" that was when the molten Lava began to flow.

Mr. Cumback, like the Cat which plays with the Mouse before breaking all of the Bones, always began in a very suave Manner.

"Before introducing any sordid Business Topics into a Morning which seems more or less devoted to Social Intercourse, I should like to ask a Question, if I am not presuming," he would say. "May I ask the Question?"

"Certainly," the Salesman would reply, wondering what new kind of Cuckoo had come in from the Street to avoid the Crowds.

"I should like to know if, when you are discussing your Private Affairs with some other Man about Town, it annoys you or disturbs your Temperament to have some Outsider come in and want to buy Goods? You see, Geoffrey, I want to be considerate. I would rather cut off my Right Hand than rudely interrupt a male Tete-a-Tete which does not concern me. I can, if necessary, do my ordering by Mail. Certainly I don't wish to inflict my rude Presence upon a scene with which I do not, as you might say, harmonize."

It would have meant just as much to the Listener if Mr. Cumback had recited the Greek Alphabet. He didn't mind, even if his Satire was too subtle for the Victim. Usually he would continue, looking straight into the baby-blue eyes of the Salesman: "I take it that you cherish a Hope to own this Place some day. You certainly have my Best Wishes."

Chummy Patter With the Salesman.

He would then make his Selections and depart, trusting that, some time during the Afternoon, it might soak in on the Party of the Second Part that he had been grossly insulted.

So long as Murder was prohibited by Statute, Mr. Cumback had to adopt gentler Methods with the other Type of Salesman who said "I'm wearing one myself." The beaming Employee who exhibited a new style of Collar on his own Person, demonstrating, as it were, to prove that it had Class, aroused in Our Hero a kind of Rabies.

"Ah, let me put on my Smoked Glasses and look at you," would be his ejaculation. "I have seen Niagara Falls, the Sunset Glow on the Jungfrau and the Grand Canyon, but never before have I been so awestricken. I am not good enough to wear such a Collar. I will simply tie my Handkerchief around my neck and let it go at that."

No wonder that those who dealt with him in Retail Establishments suspected that he drank, or used Opium, or had been overcome by the Heat, or possibly the Nurse had let him fall on his Head while he was young.

Among his Chronic Ailments were Treasuritus, Forteresse and Waiterphobia. The boy in the Box-Office would begin "We have nothing—" and then Alfred would interrupt and take the Words out of his mouth, saying: "I get you. You have nothing ahead of the 18th Row. Did you ever figure that you could save a lot of Wear and Tear on your Vocal Cords by installing a Phonograph here in the Lobby and have it repeat over and over 'Nothing ahead of the 18th Row.' You have a Hit in your Show-Shop and I am only a poor Goof who wants to buy a Pair at the advertised Prices, so that makes me just as welcome as Neuralgia.

"Before departing, I wish to say that I have had Visions of Alexander on a Throne of Porphyry and Gold, sighing for more Worlds to conquer; of Imperial Caesar entering Rome at the head of his Legions, and of Napoleon contemplating a conquered Europe, but never in my wildest Imaginings have I pictured anything so overwhelmingly royal and indescribably magnificent as you, sitting back in your Cage, gazing down at the Worms who come crawling up here, begging for Tickets of Admission. Hoping that you fall down and break both Legs, as you are being led toward the Electric Chair, I will bid you a cheery 'Good Afternoon,' but be sure and let me know when you are going to be buried, as I want to send some Flowers."

Enthusiastic Pall-Bearers.

The foregoing is a specimen of Rough Stuff as distinguished from Polite Satire, but Mr. Cumback discovered Years ago, that to jar a Ticket-Seller one must use a Blunt Instrument.

Very often in bestowing a Tip at a Restaurant, Mr. Cumback would say to the grasping Menial: "I hand you this money, not because you have rendered Intelligent Service, but so that you may be enabled to purchase at some good Book Store a Volume entitled 'How to Wait on the Table.'"

He puzzled many a Pullman Porter who came, Whisk Broom in Hand, by asking, "Have we met before?" A dirty Dig like this always sounded impromptu, but as a Matter of Fact, he had thought it out long beforehand and nursed it until the Time came.

The Chambermaids could have written a Book about Alfred Cumback. Not that he ever called them Names. He simply asked questions. He was trying as an amateur Psychologist, to discover the Mental Processes which induced them to remove Everything from his Writing Table and make the Ratio between Bath Towels and Hand Towels four to one.

Alfred passed on not long ago. He was carried to his last Resting Place by six hired Pall-Bearers recruited from the Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

Tea Selection Matter of Prime Importance

An amber beverage of unbelievable fragrance, served without either sugar or cream to mar its perfection—that is the most vivid of the memories I have of my first meeting with old Hi Chang, writes a correspondent in the Cape Argus. It was a revelation to see him buy his precious tea.

First he rubbed the leaves between his fingers. The crisp crackling carried a definite message to his sensitive ear. Inferior tea—mud, he would have called it, contemptuously—is soft and flabby to the touch.

Then he raised a pinch to his delicate nostrils, sniffing long and attentively. As all true disciples of Doctor Johnson know, a faint elusive scent always clings to a perfect tea.

I was unprepared for the next step, I admit. He lifted a few leaves and began to chew them thoroughly. A western expert would have brewed the tea with a sample of the particular water for which it was destined, but the taste of the raw leaf against the palate was sufficient for this fastidious mandarin.

The test of touch, taste and smell concluded, the purchasing commenced. Long and patiently, buyer and seller bargained before this miracle of the tea plantation changed hands at what appeared to me the tremendously high price of $25.00 per pound.

As a parting gift, he gave me a tiny tin containing enough for a single infusion of this precious tea; not for worlds would he have committed the sacrilege of dropping these leaves into the more convenient envelope. That would have imparted a "papery" taste.

Tough on Bulldogs

Though the faults to which the bulldog is subject are many, judges are not disposed to show leniency in judging this breed. It makes no difference whether the dog be merely "wry-faced," or obviously unsound in gait or shape, the defect is subject to penalty in rating. The judges turn a deaf ear to those owners of "wry-faced" dogs who protest that the out-of-true appearance of their dog's face is not due to a structural defect of the jaw but to something in the nature of a misplaced tooth, declaring that even such minor unsoundness is not permissible in a first-class bulldog.

Agents Arrest 3 More Local Men

Bernard Coughlin was arrested at 115 Abeel street and Julius Savoy and Frank Spadafora at 261 East Strand Wednesday by investigators from the Kingston prohibition office. At the Abeel street premises alleged wine, home brew and hard cider were seized and alleged whiskey and home brew were seized at the premises on East Strand. The defendants were arraigned before Commissioner Connelly this morning on charges of possession and sale. Coughlin waived examination and was held in $1,500 bail for district court. Savoy and Spadafora demanded a hearing and their cases were adjourned to March 17, bail being fixed at $1,000 for Savoy and $500 for Spadafora.

Stirring Speeches Mark Celebration

Holmes referred to some of the [illegible] in history. He spoke of the time of Queen Elizabeth, when at [illegible] period hordes of thugs and [illegible] walked the streets of England [illegible] years from that time became the "golden age." He spoke of the remark of William Pitt when he [illegible] upon office, to the effect that [illegible] might as well "roll up the map of Europe," of the experience of Washington at Valley Forge, asking, "Was there ever a darker moment?" and said, "We must go back to the [illegible] of George Washington."

"If we are to recover the prosperity of 20 years ago," said the speaker, "the world must set its [illegible] to preserve the peace machinery we have been striving so hard to [illegible]."

Speaking of his experiences in the World War, Mr. Holmes said that he would never lose his feeling of admiration for the gallantry of the men who fought in the World War; [illegible] "revealed the intrepidity and gallant courage of the young men of today." In this connection the speaker referred to some of the young men of exceptional promise, naming a grandson of Gladstone, the son of Lord Rosebery, the son of Lord Asquith and Quentin Roosevelt, who had given their lives during that struggle and he said, "If our civilization is to be perpetuated we cannot allow it to be drenched with blood every few years. We must support those great leaders throughout the world who are using every effort to settle disputes by arbitration."

Numbered by Problems.

The speaker found that "we are obsessed with our difficulties today. We are numbed by our problems. Customs built up during hundreds of years, institutions thought to be secure are," said he, "found to be built on quicksand."

Mr. Holmes found reason for hope however and reminded his hearers that the darkest hour must pass, "the blackest night must yield to dawn. It was a time when 'we who are men must have the man with faith in Masefield's message, "color is coming in the eastern sky."'" The speaker concluded with the plea that there be "faith in God, faith in each other, desire and allegiance to all that is best."

The guests rose as Mr. Holmes concluded, in tribute to his earnest address and all joined in the chorus [illegible] of "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

President Merritt observed that comment on the address that had just been heard would be superfluous and presented Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck to introduce the next speaker. Judge Hasbrouck paid a tribute to the speaker who had just concluded, saying that he had been much moved by Mr. Holmes' address. He had read of the part the Anzacs played in the World War, of their contribution to England's strength, but now he knew what an Anzac was. Said he: "Mr. Holmes is just as famous on the platform as the Anzacs were on the battlefield."

Judge Hasbrouck spoke in high terms of the speaker who was to follow, as a man of great ability, a wide traveler and one whose record of things accomplished rendered any introduction unnecessary. He then presented the Rev. Dr. William I. Chamberlain, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church and a one time classmate of his in Rutgers University.

Dr. Chamberlain was born in India and following his education in this country returned to India where he served for many years as a missionary, in the country where his father had seen similar service for some 50 years. About [illegible] years ago Dr. Chamberlain returned to the United States and has since served as the exceptionally efficient secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of his church. His ability is recognized by the International Foreign Mission Boards, who made him their president.

Following a brief tribute to the "two deathless men" whose names are connected with the month of February, Dr. Chamberlain took up his topic, "Jehol and Its Implications," a subject he is well fitted, by long residence in the Orient and extensive travel, to discuss.

Defines Three Countries.

At the start he gave the following definitions—Japan, the people of the clever hands; China, the people of willing shoulders; India, the people with bowed heads. He continued with some elaboration of the characteristics of these three races and then gave some comparisons between the territory of these countries and the United States.

China and the United States are practically the same in area, are embraced in about the same latitudes, both have many harbors in their coast line, both have one great river valley, both have natural resources, such as coal and iron and both are by nature fitted for industrial development. China, however, has less than half the number of railroad miles, but a fraction as many telegraph facilities, post offices and other means of communication. It has about [illegible] banks, compared with [illegible] in the United States and has less than [illegible] newspapers. China is particularly lacking in one respect, it lacks power at the center of government.

The speaker dwelt at some length on the progress of Japan, which, he said, had adopted western methods to a marked degree, but which had "disappointed the world's hope." He compared [illegible] with California as to area, the total area of Japan being some 10,000 square miles less than that of California. Of this total area [illegible] per cent is mountainous and on the remaining 15 per cent the Japanese must support a population one-half that of the entire United States, a population which is growing at the rate of about 800,000 a year.

Facing these conditions, with tariff walls that have made her dependent upon herself and finding herself desperately in need of room, of food supplies and other necessities, "Japan," said the speaker, "fell back upon the law of the jungle, the law of self preservation." Dr. Chamberlain asked whether, when the life of a people depended upon their reaching out to other lands, they were justified.

The speaker concluded with some reference to Japan's activities in Korea, more lately in Manchuria and its attitude in the present situation in the Far East.

It was a most interesting and timely address, that brought to a finish an enjoyable and instructive occasion.

The present officers of the Men's Club are: William G. Merritt, president; B. H. Hotaling, vice-president; Matthew Van Tassell, secretary; Ralph K. Forsyth, treasurer. The committee in charge of the dinner this year was composed of Dr. Lucas Boeve, I. Stuart Williams, Howard R. St. John, Harry Ensign, B. H. Hotaling, John Snyder, C. H. Schoonmaker, L. H. Dorr.

Famed Thieves' Market of Moscow Is Abolished

Moscow — With the closing of Sukharevsky market the Soviet capital [illegible] of the fame which was part of Russian life for generations.

A [illegible] market before and after the [illegible] in the last few years the last stamping ground of private traders, legitimate and otherwise. [illegible] the Soviet [illegible] complete that the [illegible] of new modern markets [illegible] necessary.

The local press supplemented the official [illegible] by attacking Sukharevsky market as a [illegible] and speculation [illegible].

The fame of Sukharevka went far beyond Moscow. It was known throughout the country. The market presented a scene far more Asiatic than European. Besides rows of booths where government goods were being sold there were others presided over by peasants trying to dispose of farm products under the Kremlin's new permission to trade on a free market basis.

Buyers and sellers [illegible] noisy confusion. Men, women and children stood or promenaded all day long to dispose of a bottle of oil, a pair of pants, galoshes or some other article.

With the increasing shortage of food and clothes in the last year these became the principal items of trade on Sukharevsky. It was chiefly at this market that thieving employees of government shops sold their loot through intermediaries.

Bogey's Biography

A golfing gentleman still well remembered is Colonel Bogey. According to report, he was born in England and derived his name from the song popular at the time, "Hush, hush, here comes the bogey man." He was thus named by the secretary of the United Service Golf club, who a little later suggested that as all members of that club must be serving or retired officers, it was proper that the new invisible member should have rank, and that as he never made mistakes he must be a senior officer—hence the title "Colonel."—Boston Transcript.

Arsenic Eaters

In the iron mountain regions of the Austrian province of Styria, where arsenic is a by-product of iron smelting, some peasants eat this virulent poison, according to the National Geographic Magazine. It is taken in small doses, which are gradually increased as the system becomes used to it, until it may be taken daily, without visible ill effect, in quantity sufficient to kill an average person. The arsenic is supposed to clear the complexion, increase the appetite, and improve breathing, especially for mountain climbers.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Dern To Serve As Secretary Of War

Salt Lake City, Feb. 23 (AP)—Former Governor George H. Dern, of Utah, has been offered the post of secretary of war in the Roosevelt cabinet, and has accepted, it was announced at his residence here today.

Mrs. Dern told newspaper representatives that President-elect Roosevelt had talked with the former governor over long distance telephone from Hyde Park, N. Y., this morning, offering him the post, and said he had agreed to serve.

Mr. Dern was asleep at the time the announcement was made, it being explained that he had been up much of the night.

FIRST BOY SCOUT COURT OF HONOR IN NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Feb. 23—The new president, D. V. Z. Bogert, of the Dutch Arms, presided at the regular meeting held last Tuesday evening. Supper was served after the program with Ira Steen and his helpers in the kitchen and serving. Through the leadership of Scoutmaster John Kickham and the help of Assistant Scoutmaster MacArthur Bar, a sufficient number of boys have earned advancement in rank to warrant the holding of the first Court of Honor ever held in New Paltz. As the Dutch Arms is the sponsoring agency for scouting in New Paltz, it was fitting that this initial Court of Honor should be held before this group of men that they might see the somewhat delayed fruit of their interest and aid.

When the court convened those on the platform were the Rev. Gerrett Wullschieger, David Jewett, Harvey Gregory and Benjamin Matteson. Scoutmaster John Kickham and his assistant, MacArthur Bar, and William Wright, of Kingston, the Ulster-Greene County executive, conducted the ceremony in which the scouts entitled to the distinction advanced in rank. Those of the scouts whose advancement in rank and honored were: First class scout, Hubert Du Bois, second class scouts, Robert Mauterstock, Benjamin Matteson, Robert Sullivan; tenderfoot scouts, Frank Veverka, Albert Smith, Charles Coiils, Daniel Boland, Robert Curtis, Elmer Pelham, Everett Pelham, Charles Van Alst, Harry Kniffen, Axel Johansen, Samuel Kevan, Lester Dunham, Worth Buchanan, James O'Brien, Edward Schmalkucke.

The boys gave an exhibition of signaling, first aid, building a fire with flint and steel, etc. Dr. Lawrence H. Van den Berg of New Paltz, the president of the Ulster-Greene County organization, was present. After the ceremony of the Court of Honor, Chief Wright gave a talk on the scout oath. The regular business meeting followed. It was decided that hereafter the supper at the regular meeting will be served at 10 o'clock. The meeting was dismissed with singing.

Earthquake Recorded

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—An earthquake, apparently centered 4,600 miles southeast of Washington, was recorded today on Georgetown University seismographs as having begun at 3:19:18 a. m., eastern standard time, with maximum at 3:45 a. m., and ending at 6:15 a. m. The shocks were moderately strong.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 23 (AP)—A brisk selling flurry swept over the stock market around noon today, but quickly subsided, after several prominent issues had lost 1 to 2 points.

Mid-week business statistics, including steel and power production figures, failed to provide much cheer, although carloadings reports from individual railroads were largely favorable. Brokers said liquidation was not in important volume, but prices gave way rather easily, not only in shares but in bonds, and in bank and insurance stocks traded over the counter.

Among shares losing 2 to 3 points were American Can, American Telephone, Case, Public Service of N. J., Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Electric Autolite, and Johns Manville. Issues off a point or so included Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, U. S. Steel, United Aircraft, Corn Products and Drug. American Smelting and U. S. Smelting each rose a point, then the latter slipped back again.

Some brokers felt that the market was becoming oversold, and was in a position to respond to good news. Progress in dealing with the Michigan banking situation was still watched more closely than anything else.

Both New York Central and Pennsylvania reported fair gains in carloadings last week. National Lead ordered its regular common and preferred dividends. Some selling of American Telephone was reported, as a reflection of dividend cuts by its associated companies, tending to reduce the parent company's income, and arousing fresh uncertainty over continuance of its $9 annual dividend rate, although action is not now due for nearly three months.

Enjoyable Program At TB Hospital

Wednesday night The Ulster County TB. Hospital was the scene of one of the most enjoyable entertainments that has ever taken place since its opening some 15 months ago.

Twenty-six ladies all members of the Masonic order of the White Shrine put on a minstrel performance that was bright, sparkling and snappy with song, dancing and wit.

To say that the patients enjoyed the show would be putting it mild—their laughter and applause attesting to their feelings. It will be a long time before they forget the fun of this wonderful night.

The affair was the result of the efforts of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Hospital, of which Mrs. Howard Lewis is chairman and they feel deeply grateful to all who took part and made it possible to give such an evening of good cheer.

The program was as follows:
Interlocutor—Mrs. Mary C. Smith
Extreme Ends Mrs. Helen Mann and Miss Marguerite Lencke.
Second Ends—The Misses Matilda Hobush and Edna Renn.
Third Ends—Miss Kathryn Mellert and Mrs. Gertrude Coulter.
Fourth Ends—The Misses Alice Scardefield and Grace Merritt.
Chorus—Mrs. Clair Andrews, Mrs. Bertha Baylor, Mrs. Olympia Cottine, Mrs. Emma Capen, Miss Grace Coutant, Miss Ruth Howard, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Ezelda Lang, Mrs. Florence Leverett, Mrs. Carolyn Mullen, Mrs. Myrtle Reynolds, Mrs. Jesse Snyder, Miss Bertha Waterman and Mrs. Laura Winters.

Program.

Opening Ballad—By Chorus
"Little Streets Where Old Friends Meet"—Mrs. Laura Winters
Duet, "Get Yourself a Girl and Fall in Love"—Matilda Hobush and Edna Renn
Ballad, "When My Little Pomeranian Met Your Little Pekingese"—Miss Grace Coutant
Endman Solo, "Please Go Away And Let Me Sleep"—Richard Obenaus
Endman Solo, "Some of These Days"—Miss Alice Scardefield
Toe Dance—Miss Marion Obenaus
Duet, "At the Baby Parade"—Mrs. Gertrude Coulter and Miss Marguerite Lencke
Ballad, "Just An Echo from the Valley"—Mrs. Clair Andrews
Endman Solo, "Fit as a Fiddle"—Miss Kathryn Mellert
Ballad, "Shanty in Old Shanty Town"—Mrs. Myrtle Reynolds
Endman Solo, "The Girl in the Little Green Hat"—Miss Marguerite Lencke
Ballad and Violin Solo, "Play Fiddle Play"—Mrs. Clair Andrews
Endman Solo, "Yah Man"—Helen Stern Mann
Closing—By entire Chorus
Music Accompanist, Harry Maisenhelder and Jacob Mollott.

Local Men Deep Sea Fishing Go

Messrs. Charles S. Brooks, Horace S. Maxon and Charles P. Ashley Indulge in Pastime in Floridian Waters and Bring in a Big Catch.

The St. Petersburg, Florida, Times in its issue of February 17, contains a story under the heading: "Deep Sea Fishermen Bring in Big Catch," of three local men, who are well known hereabouts as anglers of note, Messrs. Charles S. Brooks of Walnut street, Charles P. Ashley of Henry street and Horace S. Maxon of West O'Reilly street.

The Times story says: "A party of winter visitors made up a deep sea fishing party Thursday, February 16, going out on Captain Guy Irving's boat, Tarpon, from Gulfport. They returned late in the afternoon with 1,000 pounds of amberjack, grouper, red snapper and mango snapper. Charles S. Brooks won the jackpot with a 27-pound grouper." There were eleven others in the party besides the three Kingston fishermen.

Mr. Ashley caught a 16-pound black grouper; Mr. Maxon an 8-pound black grouper, and Mr. Brooks the prize package, a big one weighing 27 pounds. These were the largest caught by the trio. The party landed amberjack up to 23 pounds and red snappers up to 16 pounds and mango snappers up to 6 pounds.

Mr. Maxon and his wife left for Miami, Florida, the day after the fishing trip, but Mr. Brooks and Mr. Ashley are still in St. Petersburg.

Mr. Brooks writes friends that he spends most of his time with John Hudler and his sons, Howard and John Hudler, fishing for sea trout, weakfish, red fish and now Spanish mackerel.

MISS O'DONNELL LEFT HOSPITAL ON WEDNESDAY

Miss Marion M. O'Donnell of Mt. Marion has recovered sufficiently from her injuries received in an auto accident in which three others lost their lives, so that she was able to be moved from the Kingston Hospital to her home on Wednesday. Miss O'Donnell, who is a school teacher at Cementon, was driving toward Kingston on the evening of January 23, when her car collided with the parked truck of B. Millens & Sons on the Saugerties road. Mrs. Catherine Lanigan and her son, William, and Donald Kolb, all of Mt. Marion were killed. They were riding with Miss O'Donnell at the time.

Ambulance Calls Here.

The ambulance on Wednesday removed James Slonlec from the Kingston Hospital to 194 Murray street; Mrs. Rose Boccherino from 27 Tietjen avenue to the Benedictine Hospital, and Mrs. Jay Orr from the Kingston Hospital to 333 Main street.

Victoria's Wedding Dress

Pieces from Queen Victoria's wedding dress were shown in an old patchwork quilt exhibited at a fair at Melbourne, Australia. The wedding took place in 1840.

Miss Morehouse To Teach Remodeling

Miss Margaret Morehouse, clothing specialist from the College of Home Economics, will be in Kingston, Friday, February 24, at which time she will give the second lesson in the course in remodeling old garments. The meeting is for local leaders and will be held in the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street, beginning at 10:30 a. m.

Each leader will bring some old garment she wishes to have made into an attractive and useful garment for herself or some other member of the family, or perhaps she may wish to make over some old garments for needy children in the community, and will bring from the attic or rag bag materials much of which still have value. Miss Morehouse gives suggestions as to what can be done with the material to make it still of value to the family or community. Instructions are given, also, in garment construction—how to prepare old material for use, short cuts in making and finishing garments as well as in cutting and fitting.

A large class is enrolled for the work. Members of the class are as follows: Mrs. Walter Davenport and Mrs. Elmer Smith, Accord; Mrs. Henry Durling and Miss Etta Thomas, Flatbush; Miss Mary Deyo, Gardiner; Mrs. Willard Adams, Mrs. Reuben Barrett and Mrs. J. M. Hamm, High Falls; Mrs. Edgar M. Clarke, Jr., Mrs. Birdsall Taber and Mrs. Herbert Bell, Milton; Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. Orville Seymour, Modena; Mrs. Emma D. Lake, Miss Nona McDowell, Napanoch; Mrs. F. M. Dressel, Mrs. C. A. Johnson, Mrs. Harold DuBois, Mrs. Charles Young, New Paltz; Mrs. F. S. Osterhoudt, Shandaken; Mrs. R. Markel, Mrs. George Sickler, Shokan; Mrs. Joseph Pratt, Mrs. Robert Service, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, Mrs. Frank Zelle, Stone Ridge.

BUSINESS GIRLS CELEBRATE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

On Wednesday evening the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. turned out in good force for what proved to be a Washington's Birthday supper. The assembly room was artistically decorated with flags and red, white and blue streamers and lighted candles on the tables. Following the fine supper the stenographic girls of the club, Miss Marion Coutant, chairman, put on a program that was highly entertaining and humorous and clever. First came a Washington Farce, "Ain't It Fierce," that was screamingly funny. Next on the program was a presentation of "The Old Family Album."

As the pages of the Album were turned there was seen Grandma Higginbottom, a very jolly soul (Janet Phillips). Next came Grandpa Higginbottom, a friend of all the children of the neighborhood. (Matilda Martin). Mother Catchup, belonging to all the village societies. (Frieda Niebergall). Father Catchup, who sang bass in the village choir and completed all of the social affairs of the community (Beatrice Powley). Son Jeddiah, Jeddy, for short, who had a temper and a hobby for bugs (Dora Pratt). Uncle Joshua or Deacon Flower-Garden very pious but shrewd in a horse deal. (Martha Showers). Blank space, where Aunt Anna's picture should be. Both Aunt Anna and the picture were captured by a young missionary to China. The Twins, who couldn't be told apart (Beatrice Powley and Alma Tyler). Ten-year-old Betsy Jane, pride of the family (Frieda Niebergall). The Parson, who shared in all of the family joys and griefs (Nellie Elmendorf).

The "Old Family Album" as given by these young ladies was one of the best entertainments given by the Business Girls in a long time.

Next Wednesday evening—Ash Wednesday—the first of this season's Lenten talks will be given after the supper by the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church. A full attendance is asked.

Kingston Loses To Poughkeepsie

Foul Shot in Last Ten Seconds of Extra Period by Michaels Leads to Maroon's 28-27 Defeat in Sensational Battle With Poughkeepsie High.

When Kingston tied up the score at 27 points about five seconds before the end of the regulation game with Poughkeepsie High here Wednesday afternoon, an extra period was played and there was no score until the very close of the added session when Michaels made a foul shot, breaking the tie and giving the Blue and White a 28-27 victory.

Kingston had a hard hill to climb to come so close to beating Poughkeepsie. In the first quarter the locals set out on the wrong foot, and were trailing the Bridge City throughout the major portion of the battle. The Kiasmen were behind, 17-12, at the end of the half.

Of the Kingston stars Captain Rhymer was the only man to continue wearing the colors he set up for himself during the early season. He came through with 15 points and Sauter, of the Kalloch outfit, gathered 17.

Sauter was the menace of the local squad. He made them from all angles and the best guarding of Kingston couldn't hold him in check. Sauter, although never prominent before, turned into a scoring sensation for Poughkeepsie over night. It was because of his big point getting and first rate guarding that led to Kingston's handicap at the end of the third quarter, 23-15.

But the Maroon had the stuff to come back. At the beginning of the last quarter little by little the comfortable lead of Poughkeepsie was cut down. Rhymer sunk them from the side of the court and made the shot that put Kingstons within arm's reach of the lead, 23-25. Then Zeeh came through with his only field of the game and tied the score. Zeeh was closely guarded throughout by Gunn and Sauter and it was his inability to come through with his usual number of points that put Kingston on the rocks.

However, Debrosky made a long shot and tied the tally at 27 all just before the gun sounded the end of the regulation game. The extra period was played and Jack Linden fouled Michaels at the close of the stanza and the Poughkeepsie forward made his single shot with the game ending a few ticks of the watch later. Poughkeepsie had taken the return battle, 28-27.

Friday night Kingston trips to Monticello for a tough DUSO game which will be the last of the season.

CUNNINGHAM AND METCALFE AFTER RECORDS

New York, Feb. 23 (AP)—At least two of the 275 athletes entered in the National Indoor Track and Field Championships Saturday are aiming at record performances in their events. These two are Ralph Metcalfe, great negro sprinter from Marquette University, and Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas middle distance ace. Both were members of the United States Olympic team last year.

Metcalfe, National champion at 100 and 200 meters, will try to win a title and crack a record at 60 meters, a race usually considered too short for him. Cunningham yesterday asked permission of Amateur Athletic Union officials to continue to the mile mark at the end of the 1,500 meter event in an attempt to shatter Gene Venzke's 4:10 record.

Nearly half a million tons of commercial fish have been taken from the Great Lakes in the last decade.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

On the basis of the sweeping shake-up they have effected this winter, the St. Louis Cardinals will put some of the strangest contrasts on the major league ball fields this season that the boys have inspected in a long time.

Whether it pays any dividends in gate receipts or in the standing of the clubs remains to be seen, but the Red Birds will exhibit the following at one and the same time:

Dazzy Vance, erstwhile king of the speedball pitchers, and the youthful heir-apparent, Dizzy Dean; an infield including Frankie Frisch, long the defensive peer of the second basemen, and the man with whom he figured in one of baseball's greatest deals, Rogers Hornsby; a deflated hero of the National League's only world series victory in six years, Pepper Martin, trying a bit desperately to regain a position as a regular anywhere in the lineup.

There are two former managers of the club on the roster, Hornsby and Bob O'Farrell, the old backstop, to make things interesting for Gabby Street. If there is anything else lacking, to furnish color and confusion for the old sergeant, he may be able to find it readily when he calls the roll of talent to be assembled within the next few weeks at Bradenton, Florida.

Cool's Lone Touchdown.

Ithacans know the story well but since the untimely death of William Cameron (Gib) Cool, it's interesting to recall the lone touchdown credited to Cornell's great center during his three years of gridiron warfare in 1913, 1914, 1915, with the Big Red teams coached by Dr. Al Sharpe.

For his weight and inches, Cool was one of the finest pivotmen in football history. He yielded to Bob Peck of Pittsburgh in Walter Camp's estimation when All-America selections were made in 1915, but there were many critics who disagreed. Camp did put Murray Shelton, end, and Charles Barrett, quarterback, Cool's teammates, on the 1915 All-America.

Barrett Fixed Him Up.

Cool and Barrett, who died in 1924, were close friends and roommates in college, besides making a great combination on the gridiron. Cool's secret ambition was to score a touchdown for Cornell before his varsity career was over and it was Barrett who finally gratified this desire in a game against Virginia Poly in 1915, a week after Cornell had defeated Harvard, 10-0, for the eastern championship.

As Bill Waters relays the story to me:

"Early in the second half, Cool intercepted a forward pass well in the opponents' territory. Three plays took the ball to the 4-yard line. Here Barrett decided to gratify Cool's ambition to score a touchdown.

"Cool was called back, Barrett took an end position, and Anderson passed the ball. In two plunges, Cool went over the line, and the stands gave him a cheer."

Verplanck Club at Pythian Tonight

A flashy basketball contest is expected at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, tonight, when the Verplanck Catholic Club, which has won 16 out of 17 games, lines up against the Spinny Radio Five. Besides this feature, starting at 9 o'clock, there will be two other games, the Port Ewen Girls meeting the Rocknes at 7:30 and the Spinny Aces the Standards at 8:15.

Corbett Wins Welter Title

San Francisco, Feb. 23 (AP)—Young Corbett, the third, looked out over the welterweight ranks today as the champion of a division in which he has been the most persistent challenger for the last three years.

Climaxing a long uphill pull, the Fresno, Calif., left hander became the ruler of the 147-pound class by decisively outpointing Jackie Fields in a 10-round bout here yesterday.

With a dazzling early attack that won him five rounds before his opponent got started, Corbett piled up an advantage that left no doubt in the minds of 15,000 fans as to his superiority. There were no dissenting voices when Referee Jack Kennedy raised Corbett's arm.

In winning the title Corbett achieved the distinction of having beaten champions on three different occasions. Three years ago in a non title fight he scored a decision over Fields, who has won and lost the championship twice. A few months after trimming Fields, the Fresno boy took on Young Jack Thompson, who had succeeded to the title and gave the rangy negro a terrific beating. As before, the championship was not at stake.

The new title holder is of Italian parentage, his real name being Raffaele Giordano. He is 27 years old, has been fighting for nearly 10 years and in 141 matches has lost but two decisions and never has been knocked out.

The gate receipts totaled $56,000 gross and $49,600 net. Fields received $35,000 and Corbett $4,000.

PUTTING SUGGESTIONS

TALES of Walter Travis' ability with a putter have become legendary. His methods, however, are as efficacious today as then. In lining up the putt Travis invariably picks out a spot in front of the ball in line with the hole, over which to putt. He would then relegate this point to his subconscious mind and promptly devote his attention to stroking the ball with the necessary power to reach the hole. Travis' actual stroke in putting showed his painstaking attention to the game. He used to imagine he was driving a tack into the ball at each stroke, a process calling for extreme accuracy. The blow, in effect not unlike the blow of a hammer would follow through on line.

His judgment on greens was also uncanny. On the sloping greens, with the hole placed on the incline, he would gauge the borrow accurately. Here a fast ball was needed in preference to a slow putt, for the latter was certain to be more affected by the roll and harder to judge. Aiming straight at the cup with little momentum, it was almost certain to roll off line downhill.

Delicate Measuring Device Correct to Ten-Thousandth

There are metal gauges so smooth and flat at the sides that when you place two together, they stick, says London Tit-Bits.

Workshop gauges, correct to one ten-thousandth of an inch, are checked at the National Physical laboratory, Teddington, by other gauges correct to a millionth. Some idea of how fine that is may be formed when we learn that a cigarette paper is one-thousandth of an inch thick and a spider's web about one-hundred-thousandth. On this instrument, a cigarette paper appears to be magnified to about thirty inches! A small gauge can be made appreciably longer by holding it for a few moments in the warm fingers.

The laboratory has devised a clock that is correct to the thousandth part of a second. It is a vibration clock regulated by a bar instead of a pendulum, and this bar vibrates 2,360 times a second.

The laboratory maintains the electric standards as well—the ampere, the ohm, and the volt. The ohm, for instance, is the resistance offered to an electric current by a column of mercury contained in a glass tube embedded in melting ice. Electric current can be measured (it is weighed on a balance) to a thousandth part of 1 per cent.

Pawnbroker's Sign Traced to the City of Florence

The three gilded balls which are often used as the indication of a pawnbroker's shop may be traced to the City of Florence many hundreds of years ago. The business of lending money for profit is very old, and the establishment of such a business was an important part of the enterprises carried on by the powerful Medici family during the Middle ages.

This family rose to wealth and influence by successful commercial ventures, and continued to combine the career of merchants and bankers with the exercise of political power. It was in all probability the importance of the Medici in money matters that led the money-lenders to adopt the Medici coat-of-arms, on which there were three gilt balls. Some authorities say that the three balls represent three pills in a punning allusion to the profession of medicine by the Medici family.

Beads of Coral as Charm

The Romans used to hang beads of red coral on the cradles and round the neck of infants to "preserve and fasten their teeth" and save them from "the falling sickness." It was considered by soothsayers as a charm against lightning, whirlwind, shipwreck and fire. Some say it should be worn round the neck of children as a preservative against "fits, sorcery, charms and poison."

Four Stars Who Have Helped Southern California Scale Athletic Heights

It's hard to find a sport in which the Trojans haven't produced a sectional, national or world champion in recent years. Vines, recognized as world tennis champ, was a sophomore when he first won the national title in 1931. Wykoff, famous sprinter, holds the recognized world mark of 9.4 for the century. Big Ernie Smith was hailed as the country's outstanding football lineman the past season. White is coast intercollegiate and California state golf champion. There are other Trojan luminaries almost too numerous to mention.

Youth Council to Lead at Port Ewen

The Kingston Youth Council Deputation Team will conduct the services at Port Ewen Reformed Church Sunday evening, February 26, at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Philip Goertz is pastor of the church. The members of the team are Francis Phillips, Glen Young, Burr Van Deusen, Kenneth Garrison, Henry Vandersee, A. H. Shultis, Harry Miller, Kimbel Pirie, Charles Leach, Roger Powell, Oscar Lawatsch, Harold Baltz, Wallace Buley, Ellsworth Haines, Howard Stephens, George Shahan, Clifford Van Valkenburgh, Beatrice Powley, Lucille Collin, Harland Wilbur, Marian Courant, Dorothy Kaplan, Phyllis Eastman, Sherwood Lasher.

The purpose of the council is: Promotion of young people's activities in the churches; exchange of ideas; cooperation with other agencies and young people's organizations; and creation of a closer Christian fellowship among young men and young women in the churches.

On Monday, February 27, there will be a missionary conference held by the congregations of Port Ewen, Ulster Park, Union Center and St. Remy churches at St. Remy. A luncheon will be served at six o'clock followed by an address by the Rev. C. Korteling.

The Rev. Mr. Korteling is a graduate of Hope College and the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. He has spent the past five or six years in India and has come into close touch with the people of that country in the very interesting and difficult period through which they have been passing. He has not only met Mr. Gandhi, but has had the privilege of spending four or five days with him as his guest in his interesting retreat at Subramati.

Most of Mr. Korteling's time has been spent out in the villages of India. An able speaker, Mr. Korteling gives a very interesting account of present day conditions in India and of the contribution which the Christian Church is making there.

Ways To Use Sour Milk

Scientists advise you to get plenty of milk each day. Drink a quart of it. In addition, use sour milk in recipes such as the following:

GINGERBREAD

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons ginger
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses
1 cup sour milk
4 teaspoons melted butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Combine the sour milk and molasses. Add these liquids to the dry ingredients. Beat in the slightly cooled melted butter until the mixture is thoroughly blended. Bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees F.—for 30 minutes.

This series of recipes was prepared by Consumers Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Ten Questions For The Uninsured Automobile Owner

1. What would you do if your car injured or killed a man?
2. Could you hire a lawyer to defend you for $50.00?
3. Are you personally able to meet a jury's verdict against you of $15,000?
4. Is it good business judgment to risk such a verdict when there's a simple, inexpensive way of avoiding it?
5. Can the millions of automobile owners who carry insurance all be wrong?
6. Is it impossible for a careful driver to have an accident?
7. Did you ever see a car skid?
8. Have you ever heard an onlooker at a busy corner say—"It's a wonder more people aren't killed"?
9. Is peace of mind worth anything to an automobile driver?
10. Is there a single, sound, common sense reason why Automobile Liability Insurance is not an economical investment for you?

Or Look Out for Automobiles

"Qui vive," pronounced "kee veev," is a French expression which means literally "who lives." It is used in the French army as the challenge of a sentinel, equivalent to the English, "Who goes there?" In this country we frequently say, "To be on the qui vive," which means "to be on the alert; to be wide awake, active or expectant."

Held In Axe Murder Of Germond Family

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP). —Arrested as a material witness in connection with the investigation of the murder of four members of the Germond family at Stanfordville, more than two years ago, Arthur F. Curry, the Germond's nearest neighbor has been held for several days in the Dutchess county jail here. Curry was unable to provide the $10,000 surety required for his release.

Curry has been questioned by the investigating authorities on numerous occasions, and his arrest was ordered when county officials had learned of his announced intention to sell his poultry farm and move away.

The murder of James Husted Germond, his wife, son and daughter, on November 26, 1930, has never been solved. All the victims were killed with an axe. Last summer the then governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, ordered the district attorney of Dutchess county to reopen the case. In the meantime, state officials had taken a hand in the probe.

Curry, a barber as well as chicken raiser, has lived at Stanfordville for the past 12 or 14 years. He previously lived in Westchester county. Police authorities believe he was born near Toronto, Ontario, but he maintains he was born in New York state, either at Amsterdam, Fonda or Utica. He is 56 years old.

The German government has set aside about $23,800,000 to be lent for remodeling or reconditioning homes.

MAY PASS LAWS TO AID HARD-HIT COTTON FARMER

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP).—If any direct farm relief legislation reaches the White House this session, it is expected to be the emergency measure to aid the hard-hit cotton farmer.

Passed by the Senate and approved by the House agriculture committee, it has been promised consideration in the House by Democratic leaders.

Formidable opposition from a number of Republicans, however, confronts the bill, which is intended to curtail production by offering the growers opportunity to participate in a government cotton pool.

Lester Herzog And His Brother Matt

The Knickerbocker Press of Albany in today's paper under the heading "Kingston Democrats Draft Republican Herzog for Job" had this to say in regard to Matthew H. Herzog, chairman of the Kingston emergency work relief committee, and his brother, Lester W. Herzog of Albany:

Matthew H. Herzog of Kingston and Lester W. Herzog of Albany brothers, have much in common from a striking similarity in features to the job of directing municipal work relief bureaus. They don't however, exactly agree on politics, confided Mr. Herzog of Albany.

Mr. Herzog of Kingston has Republican tendencies, but in spite of that he was drafted by the Democratic administration to run the city's work relief bureau.

Mr. Herzog of Albany yesterday related the story of his Republican brother. When the Democratic leaders asked Mr. Herzog to take over the work relief bureau the Republican members of the Common Council promptly decided not to appropriate any money for work relief. Equally promptly, Mr. Herzog called in the workers, told them the work was over and shut the office.

The next day the six recalcitrant Republican aldermen, begged the mayor to call a special meeting so work relief funds could be appropriated. Mr. Herzog won.

About 25 years ago Matthew Herzog lived in Kingston. He opened a hardware store. Later he added paint and automobile accessories. He never participated in politics actively.

Mr. Herzog of Albany, a Democratic worker, voter and officeholder, believes Mr. Herzog of Kingston will return to the Democratic fold in time.

"Our father was a Democrat and Matt's apostasy took place when William Jennings Bryan wanted to sell the country silver," he said.

TO AWAIT RECOMMENDATION FROM LIQUOR COMMISSION

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23 (AP).—New York's legislature will await a recommendation from the Conway Liquor Commission before considering a law to provide for a vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Dunnigan-Sargent bill, which was to have come up in both Senate and Assembly today, will remain in committee until the Conway Commission reports either next Monday or Tuesday. The measure that Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader, and Willis H. Sargent, Syracuse Republican assemblyman, fathered, called for a state convention in April with 30 delegates from each of 51 senatorial districts. This was amended so that a majority of delegates would be elected at large.

Thank You!
